Martial Law Declared as Czechs Act to Thwart Slovak Uprising

Discharge of Ministers in Slovakian Cabinet Precipitates Crisis; Troops Called Out To Halt Disorders, Moves To Win Independence.

(By United Press)

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia—Martial law was declared today at Bratislava, capital of the semi-autonomous Slovak government, and Czechoslovak troops occupied public buildings of Bratislava, Pistyan, Bystrice and Trent in a sudden government move to crush separatist activities.

It was announced that the central government had appointed a Czech general to "aid and counsel" the Slovak government.

The central government's action came immediately after the dismissal this morning by President Emil Hacha of the premier, economics minister and labor minister in the Slovak cabinet.

Martial law was proclaimed at 11 a. m. by means of a radio broadcast in which the government urged the population to maintain order and to obey the authorities.

At Bratislava the situation had become menacing. Several shots were fired this morning when several thousand members of the separatist guards and workers assembled to protest against dismissal of the ministers. The origin of the shots was not known.

Slovak Leave Jobs.

Slovak nationalist workers in large factories, including plants manufacturing cables, rubber products and explosives, declared a strike and joined members of the Slovak nationalist youth movement in demostrations in the center of the city.

Soldiers formed cordons at roads leading into the city to prevent peasants and countryside workers from entering.

Troops of the occupation force were drawn largely from non-Slovak areas. They arrived at Bratislava early this morning in motor trucks and buses.

All night and until 9 a. m. today telephone service was suspended throughout Slovakia to foreign countries.

It was understood that additional troops from Bohemia and Moravia were on their way to Slovakia.

The dismissals and troop occupation came after demands by the Czechoslovak government that Slovaks stop agitating for a sovereign and independent state and trying to form a Slovak army.

The central government's action was a drastic means of restoring the authority of the state throughout Czechoslovakia. There had been general unrest since the dismemberment under the Munich agreement.

Ministers dismissed were Josef Tiso, premier; Mikulas Pruzinski, economics minister, and Ferdinand Durcansky, labor minister.

The dismissals of the Slovak ministers came four days after the dismissal by President Hacha of Julian Revay, minister without portfolio in the semi-autonomous Carpatho-Ukranian cabinet. He had been accused of playing a part in incidents on the Czechoslovak-Polish frontier.

The dismissal order came after demands by the Czechoslovak government that Slovaks desist from demands for a sovereign and independent state and from attempts to form a Slovak army.

HITS WOODLAND WATER PLANS AS INADEQUATE

Chief Says Proposed $8,000 Improvement Won't Boost Pressure in Some Parts.

FIRE BLAMED ON 'SHORT'

Defective Garage Wiring Seen as Cause of $40,000 Blaze; Fireman Recovering.

Present plans for improvement of the water system in Woodland, to cost $8,000 will not boost water pressure in some parts of that area, near the scene of Wednesday night's $40,000 fire.

That was the flat statement today of Fire Chief Charles Seeburger, made as a result of a study of the contemplated improvement in the light of Wednesday night's experience, which showed that one Woodland water line was totally inadequate for fire-fighting. The 1939 water program calls for the construction of an eight-inch main in the Woodland district.

Other Developments.

The chief also revealed several other interesting facts, among them:

1. That the blaze which was brought under control after a two-hour battle by firemen started in the garage from a short circuit in the electric wiring.

2. That C. O. Hall, Central company fireman, overcome by smoke during the blaze was confined to his home under the care of a physician, who said that Hall suffered an injured back in a 15-foot fall from a ladder.

Started In Ceiling.

Chief Seeburger said his investigation of the ruins of the 10-room structure yesterday revealed that the fire had started in the ceiling of the garage between the flooring of a small storage room.

He said he was of the opinion that electric wires enclosed in a metal cable had become shorted and fused the cable to red hot heat which ignited the wood framework interior.

The chief pointed out that the smoldering fire between the partitions then ate its way to the main structure and followed the eaves through the entire roof of the house. He said the fire gained considerable headway not only because of the lack of the water supply but also because the roof was of wooden shingles and that there was not metal sheeting between them and the roof frame.

Seeburger said a fire of similar proportions anywhere in the immediate vicinity of Woodhill and Edgewood roads would tax the supply and that firemen would be unable to cope with the situation because of the small size mains on the streets.

The chief said that he frequently has called city officials' attention in past years to the need of larger water mains throughout the city, pointing out that the condition did not exist alone in Woodland.

Although the city is prepared to construct a new $8,000 main on Woodland as a part of its comprehensive revamping program, he

BRUNETS SCORE

But Women in General Are Too Spoiled, Etc., the Men Say.

PHILADELPHIA —(U.P.)— Popular legend to the contrary, the men of America prefer brunets, but as a rule they think women are:

1—Too spoiled.

2—Too often nagging and jealous.

3—Too willing to pet and kiss before marriage.

4—Not enough concerned with keeping romantic after marriage.

5—Too busy with things outside the home.

These points were brought out in a survey made public today by the Ladies Home Journal. It showed that 59 per cent of the men questioned preferred brunets, 31 blonds and 10 redheads.

RULING SLASHES CASH FOR RELIEF

State Says Only $10,000 of $30,000 Allocation Can Go for Current Cases.

Mansfield's relief situation took on darker hue today when state relief officials ruled that the city and county can use only $10,862 of a total $30,000 allocation in state funds for the payment of current relief bills.

The remaining $19,200 must be used to pay county relief bonds and loans obtained last year to meet past-due bills, the order said.

The restricted distribution leaves the city and county with relief bills totaling approximately $30,000 for the first two months of this year and only one-third of that amount available to pay them.

County commissioners prepared today to allocate the $10,862 fund to the subdivisions on the basis of their needs, giving Mansfield $6,121 for its January expenses which amounted to $9,372.

In addition to its January and Ferbuary bills which total about $18,000, Mansfield has $23,058 in past-due notes with no money to pay them. City officials, however, hope to share in the distribution of the $20,000 debt fund which cannot be used for bills.

Richland county's old debt under the Carey act amounts to about $35,000, Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said, and a part of them will be retired from the state allocation.

Contrary to the trend in other

New 1939 Auto Tags Make First Appearance Today

A few Mansfield automobiles blossomed out today with the new 1939 tags—the first day they could be displayed under state regulations.

The 1939-1940 plates, which have blue figures on a white background, went on sale March 1 but could not be used until today. Old tags, however, are legal until midnight of March 31, C. W. Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, said.

While Mansfield car owners laid down their license tag fees of $7, and $10, one young man handed over a check for $24,021.50 yesterday at the Richland County Auto club.

He was Thomas M. Dorey, Mansfield employe of the Norwalk Truck Line company, and the check was signed by J. F. Ernsthausen, head of the commercial transportation company.

The license plates were for 166 trailers and 109 trucks and tractors. License charges this year were $3,000 more than for last year, Dorsey said, the increase being due to added equipment.

The company also pays license tag fees for equipment kept in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan terminals.

RUMOR, GOSSIP ATTACKED IN HURON MURDER

Widow, Accused in Auto Slaying of Husband, Starts Plans for 'Unprecedented' Fight.

DENIES DEATH SCHEME

Attorney Says He'll Demand Right to Quiz Witnesses Grand Jury Called.

(By Associated Press)

NORWALK — Three mocking words—"presumption of guilt"—kept a pretty widow in jail today charged with murder in the death of her husband, but she planned an "unprecedented' legal fight to regain freedom under bond and the companionship of her golden-haired daughter of six.

Accused jointly with an attentive neighbor of plotting the "hit-and-run" death of her husband, the widow, Mrs. Corletta Schlett, 28, of Sandusky, yesterday walked calmly into a crowded courtroom and entered a plea of innocent.

Judge Denies Bond.

Judge Edgar C. Martin denied bond under a constitutional provision which withholds freedom from persons charged with capital offenses where there is great "presumption of guilt."

The latter has been established only through an indictment based on "rumor, gossip and speculation," the slender, graceful defendant charged through her attorney, Thomas Murray. He planned to file an application today seeking an opportunity "to remove such presumption." The attorney said he also would examine at a public hearing each of the 44 witnesses who testified before the grand jury which indicted his client. Judge Martin will be asked to fix bond if positive evidence of complicity is found wanting.

Such procedure was described by other attorneys here as "without precedent." The jurist declined to comment.

Meanwhile the other defendant, Harold Hastings, 35, prepared to contest the charge through more orthodox channels.

He'll Remain In Jail.

He also asserted his innocence yesterday, standing silently before Judge Martin while his attorney, Russell Ramsey, entered a plea of not guilty. Hastings will remain in jail, the attorney said, until the trial, scheduled tentatively for the May term of court.

Another silent principal at the arraignment was Coroner J. D. Bradish, who asked for the grand jury probe after an inquest verdict that Carl Schlett "was deliberately run down and killed with an automobile" on a lonely snow-swept road nine miles west of here on the night of Jan. 27.

Bracy said Ralph Avery, farmer living near where Schlett's body was found, claimed to have heard sounds possibly caused by the impact of an automobile against a body and to have seen a car parked near the scene the night the $20-a-week paper factory employe and unpaid riding stables instructor was killed.

WOUNDS JUDGE

Disgruntled Man Hunted After Firing Shots at Jurist.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. —(U.P.)— Police looked to the divorce records of Jefferson circuit court today for identity of a "portly well-dressed man" who could have been driven to attempted murder of Judge Churchill Humphrey by an adverse decision.

The judge was wounded slightly last night by a man whom he believed to be "a dissatisfied litigant."

The assailant appeared at the front door of the Humphrey home shortly after the dinner hour. Mrs. Humphrey answered his knock.

"I've got some briefs to deliver to Judge Humphrey," he told her.

As Humphrey entered the room the caller opened his brief case. Without a word of explanation he jerked out a heavy pistol, fired three times and fled.

A. F. OF L. OFFERS OWN PROPOSALS

Peace Plan Said to Contain Major Concessions; Goes to Committee Tonight.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK—American Federation of Labor negotiators had their own labor unity proposal today and it was said to contain major concessions to industrial unionism.

It may be presented when the peace negotiations resume at 8 p. m. tonight to consider the plan of the Congress of Industrial Organization to end its three-year-old struggle with the federation by creating a "American Congress of Labor" which would contain all unions.

The CIO proposal was put back on the Agenda upon the insistence of President John L. Lewis, who was angered by the A. F. of L. summary and curt rejection less than three hours after its presentation to President Roosevelt and the joint committees at their first meeting in the white house Tuesday.

High A. F. of L. sources said today that federation committee members still doubted the practicability of the CIO plan to unite the A. F. of L., CIO and independent railroad unions in one organization before settling their jurisdictional disputes. But they said also that the A. F. of L. negotiators believed no lasting peace was possible without substantial recognition of the "one big union" idea espoused by Lewis, and partially refused by the A. F. of L. at the Atlantic City, N. J., convention in 1935.

That refusal resulted in forma-

Averill last year received $12,000 plus a $2,000 bonus for hitting over .325 in 125 games. This year's original contract provided for no bonus. He recently expressed a desire to be traded to Detroit.

BERLIN: Slovaks Say Czechs Duped Them On Financial Pact

(By Associated Press)

BERLIN—Budget difficulties of the Slovak government resulted in the conflict between Czechs and Slovaks which developed far more serious consequences today than anybody at first expected.

Slovaks demanded autonomy as the price of their remaining within the emaciated Czechoslovak republic after the September crisis.

Their demand was supported by Germany and Italy arbitrators of the diminished state's future, and autonomy was granted.

Having achieved autonomy, the Slovaks now discover that their own financial resources are not sufficient to balance the budget.

An internal loan, which the government tried to float, brought but scant results.

Slovaks re-examined the financial accord made with Prague and claimed they had been duped by the Czechs.

Trouble, therefore, originally started with demand for a better financial arrangement between these two autonomous units of Czechoslovakia.

Hand in hand with the financial claims of the Slovaks' government went the demands of radicals in Slovakia for a more complete autonomy—autonomy even to the point of forming a separate state.

Prague authorities on their part pointed out that the emaciated republic's finances were precarious anyway, because some of her best industrial regions had been ceded to Germany.

In view of the movement for independence, the Prague government demanded certain guarantees that a better financial deal would not lead simply to secession.

While this whole quarrel was on, Slovak leaders went to Berlin, apparently to find out how far Hitler would support the movement for Slovak independence.

The German government appears to have taken the attitude that it is up to the Czechs and Slovaks to settle their own family quarrel.

For one thing, plans for superhighways from Breslau to Vienna and from Dresden to Chust were based on the assumption that Czechoslovakia would remain as a German-dominated entity.

For another, Germany risks that Carpatho-Ukraine would be awarded to Hungary by Poland and Rumania in the event Slovakia becomes autonomous.

MADRID: Tanks Smash Lines of Spanish Communist Revolters

(By Associated Press)

MADRID—Mechanized army units summoned to the aid of Gen. Jose Miaja's government today smashed their way with tanks into Plaza Manuel Becerra, strategic square on the east side of Madrid, crushing Communist revolters in their path.

There was no indication immediately of the number of casualties but it was announced officially that 14,000 rebellious soldiers had surrendered since yesterday.

General Miaja's supporters asserted they had uprooted "most" of the Communist nests which had been holding out, including the hiding places of Communist snipers who had been firing at the approaching Loyal troops.

(The communique on the number who surrendered was one of the first indications from Madrid of the scope of the uprising which started Monday against the peace-seeking policy of the Miaja government.)

Miaja's defense minister, Gen. Segismundo Casado, in a radio speech said:

"We have given final orders from this very moment that the repression must commence.

"No method, however violent, will be spared to insure peace for the people of Madrid.

"Those who know me will realize I mean what I say.

"We of the national defense council have shown too much consideration already. There is no room for consideration when dealing with the undesirable elements disturbing the life of the people of Madrid."

(Dispatches from Burgos, the Spanish nationalist capital, said the Madrid radio had broadcast that a "mobile army" marching to Miaja's aid had entered Madrid and occupied Plaza Manuel Becerra, a strategic square on the east side of the city.

(Calle Alcala, Madrid's main street, several other thoroughfares and outer boulevards join in the square, mention of which indicated that reinforcements had come either from the Valencia area, to the east, or the Guadalajara area, to the northeast.

(Reuters, British news agency, reported a heavy battle was raging at Plaza Manuel Becerra with both sides using tanks and armored cars.

(Miaja's troops, it said, were dispatched from the center of the city along Calle Alcala in an attempt to join forces with the mobile army and trap Communists holding out between the two Republican forces.)

said, purporting to show that the widow sought unsuccessfully before her husband's death to have his two insurance policies, totaling $12,500 in case of accidental death, changed so that she would receive the money in one payment instead of in a series of $100 payments.

Highway Patrolman Ray Abrams, who investigated the death, said he was told Schlett refused to permit the company to make the change in his policies and later asked that his daughter, Donna Jean, be named beneficiary instead of his wife. Abrams said no change in beneficiary had been made, however.

Sergt. V. M. Andrews of the highway patrol was placed in charge of the patrol's investigation of the death late yesterday.

STEELS, MOTORS, UP FRACTIONS, LEAD RECOVERY

Market Followers Derive Cheer From Survey Showing Increase in Retail Sales.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market took on a mild recovery tinge today as steels, motors and merchandising issues moved up fractions to around a point.

Among favored stocks were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, Caterpillar Tractor, Union Carbide, Westinghouse, Great Northern and Pennsylvania.

Bonds continued to edge upward. Commodities were mixed. Stocks at London again pointed higher.

Market followers derived some cheer from the survey of Dun and Bradstreet which found that, in a week of rising business activity, retail trade enjoyed the broadest gains.

Mild weather, it was said, help retailers extend their gains of the previous week, and most stores reported improvement in sales spread through all departments but best demand was centered in wearing apparel and other seasonal items.

RULING SLASHES CASH FOR RELIEF

State Says Only $10,000 of $30,000 Allocation Can Go for Current Cases.

sections of the state, the county's relief case load dropped off slightly in February. Relief Director J. V. Finney reported today.

February cases totaled 829 as against 832 in January and the indebtedness dropped from $15,194 in January to $14,859, his figures showed.

Distribution of the $10,862 fund will give each of the 2,422 persons on relief in January an average of $4 each.

Major allocations to the county's subdivisions and their indebtedness include:

Mansfield, $6,121 and $9,372 in debts; Madison township, $1,730 and $2,713; Shelby, $768 and $1,118; Springfield township, $256 and $202; Plymouth township, $240 and $131; Cass township, $180 and $200. Other townships which will share in the allocation to a lesser degree are Bloominggrove, Worthington, Troy, Sharon, Jefferson, Monroe, and Mifflin.

Administration expenses will require $1,174 from the $10,862 allocation.

HITS WOODLAND WATER PLANS

Chief Says Proposed $8,000 Improvement Won't Boost Pressure in Some Parts.

contends the line will not alleviate the shortage in the Edgewood section unless several lateral lines are constructed.

Seeburger recommended that the laterals be laid in connection with the project which is expected to be started within a few weeks.

City Engineer W. C. Statler revealed today that of the 95 miles of water mains in the distribution system, approximately 40 per cent or 42 miles were of four-inch lines or under. The balance, or 53 miles are of six-inch to 20-inch mains.

Statler pointed out that although the construction of four-inch lines was discontinued two years ago that both he and Seeburger in their annual reports have for the past several years advocated the replacing of numerous four-inch lines for added fire protection.

Meanwhile Hall, who suffered a back injury in a fall from a ladder when overcome by smoke was reported improved at his home at 35 Hammond avenue. He is under the care of a physician.

FOURTH PAID

County's Tax Collections Hit $179,000, Ahead of 1938.

With three weeks to go, approximately one-fourth of Richland county's $750,000 real estate tax bill for the first half of the year had been paid today.

Receipts so far total $179,017, well ahead of collections for the same period last year.

County Treasurer John E. Kolb, who expects the daily collections to increase as the April 1 deadline approaches, described receipts as "very good."

Collection of personal taxes, however, are lagging behind last year's figures, and Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said only 600 accounts had been paid as compared with 1,000 at this time last year. Personal levy receipts today amounted to $12 336, including $10,461 in classified tax and $1,875 in general personal tax.

THEATERS

THE jinxed "Gone With The Wind" has gone before the cameras for the second time, and it's quite probable that the new director will start from scratch scrapping all the film that his predecessor had shot. There is quite a howl now over the fact that three of the major player are English—Vivian Leigh, Olivia deHavilland and Leslie Howard. . . . Water Brennan, who won the Academy award this year for character actor, began his career by imitating the bray of a jackass. It was in "The Frisco Kid."

Historical Figure.

An empire in the building provides James Cagney with his first western role. In "Oklahoma Kid," the actor who was runner-up for the acting honors in the academy award this year, plays the historical character of Jim Kincaid, one of the toughest of the bad men of the southwest. The action takes place in 1893 when the new territory in Oklahoma was thrown open to land-hungry pioneers who raced in for their homestead claims. In the lawless era that followed, Kincaid was a conspicuous figure. Rosemary Lane and Humphrey Bogart are seen in Cagney's support. The picture opens tomorrow at the Ohio.

Double Feature Bill.

A Western film roaring with action and gun play and a domestic comedy make up the Madison bill. "Arizona Legion" with George O'Brien, is the story of the founding of the Arizona Rangers, a small, secret band of men pledged to keep lawlessness out of their community. "Bondie Meets The Boss" with Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake, depicts the trials of the popular newspaper cartoon characters.

Western Banditry.

To stem the rising tide of banditry and cattle rustling, a young federal man comes to Medicine Hat under an assumed name in "Prairie Justice," one of the Ritz attractions. Bob Baker and Dorothy Fay are featured. "Vacation From Love" with Dennis O'Keefe and Florence Rice, a swift-moving romantic domestic comedy, is also shown.

Leaves Radio for Screen.

Dorothy Page, former radio star with her own national program, deserts that medium of entertainment for a screen career in her first series of cowgirl pictures. She is seen as a modern girl who knows what she wants and can fight for it in "Ride 'Em Cowgirl," at the Majestic. A second feature is "Secret Service of the Air" with Ronald Reegan and John Litel.

Victim of Spy Ring.

When a young woman tells a man whom she meets in a theater that she is being hunted by a spy ring, he makes light of it until she is murdered before his eyes. And then he sets out to expose the spy ring, known as "The 39 Steps"—and which is the name of the picture. Robert Donat and Madeliene Carroll have the leading roles in this English film at the Park. On the same bill is shown "Having a Wonderful Time" with Ginger Rogers and Douglas Fairbanks.

Poultry and Supplies

BOWDEN'S WHITE WYANDOTTES are the leading strain in the United States today. Read what the following AMERICAN POULTRY ASSN. JUDGES (the men who know poultry best) say:
Fred W. Otte, Peekskill, N. Y. "The exhibit of Sherman Bowden & Son at New York State Fair won practically all the awards. Their First Prize Pullet, winner of Champion was a grand bird."
George Montgomery, Arden, N. Y., while judging at the large Fall and Winter Shows through New York, New Jersey, and Connecticut find most of your customers winners of the top prizes in White Wyandottes which speaks very highly for your stock and method of doing business."
Len Rawnsley, Bedford, Ind. (a leading judge both in the U. S. and England.) "I believe it was in 1912 that I first judged Bowden's White Wyandottes. Have watched this line from year to year ever since and I want to congratulate them on bringing this strain up to such high production quality as I have seen flock after flock of Bowden's White Wyandottes in so many different states that lay and keep laying with the best we have today."
I. Morgan Asbjeld, Alcester, S. D., "You are to be congratulated on the fine work of originating and perfecting the Bowden Strain of White Wyandottes which has become so nationally known for their Exhibition and Egg Producing qualities. I heartily recommend Bowden's White Wyandottes."
Give us an order for chicks from these high class birds that really have breeding back of them. Our prices are almost as low as hatchery chicks. Sherman Bowden & Son, Canal 5310, Mansfield, O.

OH —IT'S JUST TERRIBLE! —AND IT'S ALL SUCH A MYSTERY, —HOW MR. GALTMAN WAS SHOT? —POOR DAVID IS WORKING HARD TO FIND OUT! —APPARENTLY NO ONE WAS IN THE MAN'S OFFICE AT THE TIME AND ---

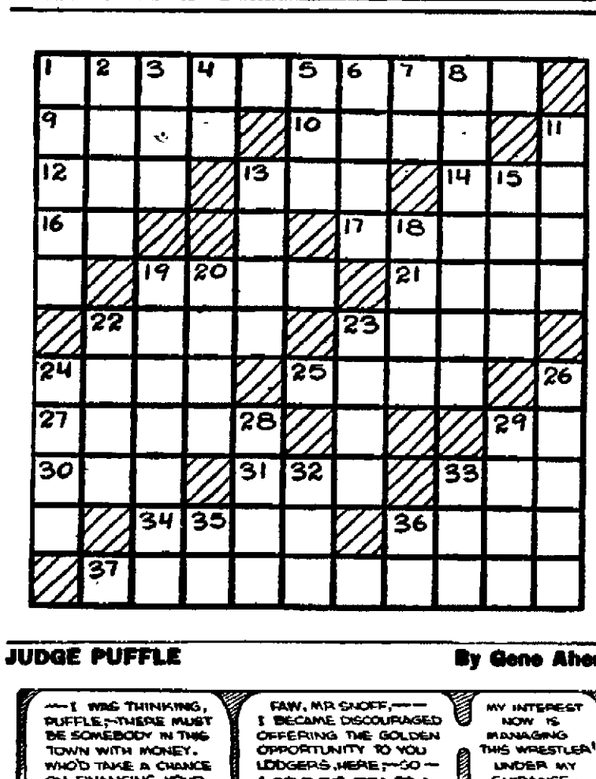
VERY STRANGE! —YOU DON'T SUPPOSE MISS GORDON COULD HAVE DONE IT IN SELF-DEFENSE? —SOMETHING LIKE THAT —AND IS TOO FRIGHTENED NOW TO ADMIT IT? —MAYBE THAT GUN OF HERS WAS LOADED, WHEN SHE THOUGHT IT WASN'T!
NO! —NO, I'M SURE CLARE WOULD TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT IT — NO — SHE JUST DOESN'T KNOW HOW IT HAPPENED, WHO DID IT!
SHE WAS VERY FOOLISH TO HAVE TAKEN THAT REVOLVER TO HER OFFICE!
YES — I THINK SO, TOO! — BUT, COLONEL SHE IS SUCH A SWEET, GENTLE GIRL — WHY, SHE JUST COULDN'T SHOOT ANYONE
CAN THE COLONEL POSSIBLY BE RIGHT? IS CLARE TOO SCARED TO TELL?



JUDGE PUFFLE By Gene Ahern

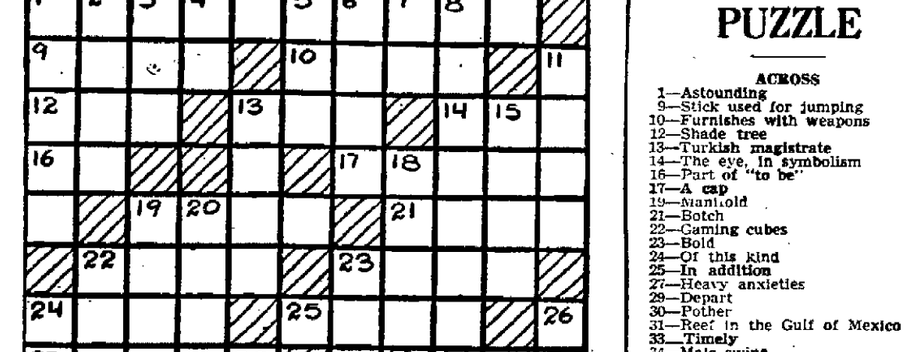
PAM—A Mystery! By A. W. Brewerton



PLEASE FORGIVE ME FOR NOT COMING DOWN YESTERDAY, COLONEL CAREY, —I JUST HAD TO STAY WITH POOR CLARE! —IT WAS ALL SUCH A FRIGHTFUL SHOCK TO HER!
YOU DID QUITE RIGHT, MY DEAR! —SHE IS IN A VERY BAD SITUATION, ISN'T SHE?
PAM IS GREATLY WORRIED OVER THE SAD PREDICAMENT OF HER SWEET GIRL PAL —SISTER OF THE MAN SHE LOVES!
OH —IT'S JUST TERRIBLE! —AND IT'S ALL SUCH A MYSTERY, —HOW MR. GALTMAN WAS SHOT? —POOR DAVID IS WORKING HARD TO FIND OUT/—APPARENTLY NO ONE WAS IN THE MAN'S OFFICE AT THE TIME AND --- ---THEY SAY IT DEFINITELY WAS NOT SUICIDE — FROM THE MANNER IN WHICH HE WAS SHOT!
VERY STRANGE!— —YOU DON'T SUPPOSE MISS GORDON COULD HAVE DONE IT IN SELF-DEFENSE? —SOMETHING LIKE THAT —AND IS TOO FRIGHTENED NOW TO ADMIT IT? — —MAYBE THAT GUN OF HERS WAS LOADED, WHEN SHE THOUGHT IT WASN'T!
NO! —NO, I'M SURE CLARE WOULD TELL THE TRUTH ABOUT IT — NO — SHE JUST DOESN'T KNOW HOW IT HAPPENED, WHO DID IT!
SHE WAS VERY FOOLISH TO HAVE TAKEN THAT REVOLVER TO HER OFFICE!
YES — I THINK SO, TOO! — BUT, COLONEL, SHE IS SUCH A SWEET, GENTLE GIRL —WHY, SHE JUST COULDN'T SHOOT ANYONE!
CAN THE COLONEL POSSIBLY BE RIGHT? IS CLARE TOO SCARED TO TELL?

A. F. OF L. OFFERS OWN PROPOSALS

Peace Plan Said to Contain Major Concessions; Goes to Committee Tonight.

tion of the CIO and the split in the labor movement in August, 1936.

The A. F. of L. committee members peace proposal, it was said, would mark off certain industries for industrial unionism and require the CIO to bring its claimed 4,000,000 members into the federation, which also claims 4,000,000 members.

In some respects, this tentative A. F. of L. proposal was said to be similar to the federation's final offer at the peace talks which failed Dec. 21, 1937. That plan provided that the CIO unions which formerly belonged to the federation, would be readmitted with the same jurisdiction they had when they left, and that each new CIO union would appoint committees to settle jurisdictional quarrels with each affected A. F. of L. craft union.

The 1937 CIO committee interpreted this proposal to mean that the original CIO unions were to go back into the A. F. of L. and leave the new unions outside to settle their many quarrels with the craft unions, alone, or fight alone if the disputes were not settled. This interpretation was disputed vigorously by the A. F. of L. committee, but the talks failed over this point.

In a review of the show Tuesday the names of several persons taking part in the "Figaro's Barber Shop" act were omitted. They were Earl Adams, Max Williams, Robert Gore and William Wampfler, a quartet; and George Loesch, George and Ralph Bosch, Othar Holton and Haskell Smith.

"The Greatest Thrill I Ever Had," Says Lucas, O., Lady

Never felt so happy as when she discovered she was again able to eat without suffering from upset stomach. All credit given Vendol.

MRS. FRANK MOWERS

"It really was a thrill the day I first realized that I could enjoy a meal without suffering from gas, sour stomach, palpitation and all the other troubles that had worried me for years," said Mrs. Frank Mowers, well known matron of Lucas, Ohio, near Mansfield, in a recent conversation with the Vendol Man in Central Drug Store where he is daily explaining the merits of this double-acting Root, Herb and Alkaline medicine. Every day he hears men and women say his medicine has been a God-send to them after other things tried, had failed.

"For years I had suffered from constipation and must have been poisoning myself slowly, which showed up in many ways such as sour stomach, gas, and acid risings The gas pressed against my heart causing palpitation and shortness of breath My food often lay heavy in the pit of my stomach and made me feel full and bloated. Sometimes I'd feel dizzy, my head would ache, and nerves were so frayed, I couldn't even get a full night's rest.

"It is remarkable how Vendol acted so promptly and relieved my constipation, then all the other troubles just seemed to disappear. I now eat foods which I would not have dared touch before, yet never feel any distress afterward. I haven't had a sign of the dizziness or the headaches lately, and enjoy restful sleep, arising every morning with new strentgh that amazes me.

"I can safely advise everyone to begin at once taking Vendol, if they feel like I used to."

The Vendol Man is daily at Central Drug Store, Cor., Main & Fourth Sts., explaining all about this medicine to hosts of people, and you, too, are invited to learn more about this grand remedy made from Nature's Roots and Herbs combined with mild Alkalines. So, come see him today, there is no charge. Leading druggists everywhere highly recommend Vendol.

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1939.)

CHAPTER XVI.

THERE HAD BEEN a crash, Lona remembered, as she came back to consciousness. She had grabbed the wheel of the car from the hands of the escaping convict who had kidnaped her, and they had crashed. She sat bolt upright as full possession of her senses came to her. She found she was back in the prison hospital. The warden, his head bandaged, was standing over her. Beside him was the doctor.

"Daddy?" she asked, fearfully.

The warden couldn't meet her eyes. "Your father is—all right, Miss Ackerman," he brought out. His eyes looked sad. "You're not to worry. You see, he—he—" He faltered and she read the truth in his face.

"He's dead," she whispered. "Daddy's dead. I didn't get here—in time. Did he ask for me?"

"He wouldn't have known you, Miss Ackerman," cut in the doctor's smooth voice. "He passed directly from the delirium you saw into a coma, and never rallied. You could have done nothing. He was happy in the thought you would never see him—here."

"He's gone. Daddy's gone. And I wasn't here!" She turned her head away from them toward the wall, the tears welling.

For a moment they allowed her to cry silently. "May I—see him?" she asked, then. "You'll let me do—that much?"

The doctor nodded and, carefully they helped her to her feet. Forgetful of her own bandaged head and the bruises that covered her stiff body, she shook them off at the door of the room where she had kept her lonely and useless vigil that endless afternoon. Considerately they allowed her to go in alone.

He was laying in the bed just as she had left him, the sheet drawn up, now, covering his face. with gentle hands she pulled it down. He looked infinitely more peaceful than when she had seen him last. In death the lines the past few years of life had traced in his sensitive face had smoothed out. He looked—at rest. As if he were glad.

"Daddy!" she cried out, and sank to her knees beside the stilled form. "Oh, Daddy!" The sobs she had been keeping in check came out then, in a burst of loneliness. Loneliness that was touched with a sudden fierce hatred of this place and all that was in it. The sullen gray walls, the bars, the measured life that was being lived about her, the doctor and his smug manners, even the warden, whose carelessness, she felt, had been responsible, somehow, for the position in which she now found herself. She hated them all. Hated them for what they had done, been forced to do, to the stilled form before her. She wanted, suddenly, more than anything else, to get him away from here. She wanted to take him home—to Bridgewater. To the old churchyard where her mother slept. Someway, somehow, she's take him back!

Everyone tried to be kind to her during the next few days. So kind Lona felt, sometimes, like crying out against the very solicitude with which she was being plied, now that it was too late, now that Daddy was no longer here to see. It wasn't fair!

The prison doctor himself saw to the arrangements for taking her father back home to Bridgewater, and Mrs. Lewis, the warden's wife, insisted upon making that last sad journey with her. She was a motherly sort of woman and the tears in her faded eyes, as she stood hand in hand with Lona on the train platform watching the streets of Bridgewater roll into view, were genuine.

At Bridgewater Mr. Ackerman's old friends rallied dutifully. Shamefaced, some of them, hating to meet her eyes, they trooped through the old-fashioned funeral parlor where she steeled herself to meet them proudly. The white-haired old minister who had been the only one of the lot of them daring to stand by her father through the whole dreadful business from the first, offered his services for the last rites.

It was at his home that Lona spent the two nights while her father lay, silent and sleeping, in the cold gloom of the funeral parlor. They were endless nights, dragging and almost unendurable. To satisfy the kindly old minister and his hovering wife, she pretended to sleep. But when they had retired, she paced the floor of the quaint bedroom, trying to bring to her scattered thoughts some semblance of order. It was of Jim Claridge, back in the city, that she thought most.

What must he be feeling about this whole thing, she kept wondering, her face burning at the thought of the lurid accounts the newspapers were blaring forth. The old preacher tried to keep them from her as much as possible, but she had seen the headlines on the train that first morning coming down to Bridgewater with the warden's wife.

"CONVICT'S DAUGHTER KINAPED IN PRISON BREAK." "Girl Wrecks Car. Kills Prisoner, Comrade of Father. . . . Girl's Father Dies In Prison Hospital as She Wrecks the Warden's Car In Desperate Effort to Block Attempted Escape. . . ."

"Lona Ackerman, pretty brown-haired daughter of a life termer, was kidnaped from the warden's home last evening by desperate prisoners. . . . Warden Lewis was found knocked on the head and abandoned in a city park. . . . One of the escaping convicts, George "Lefty" Noonan, died of a broken neck in the wreckage of the car. Louis Ewarts, his companion, was recaptured after suffering only slight bruises. . . . The girl, called to the prison by the fatal illness of her father, was a visitor in the warden's home when the escape occurred. Ackerman, a life prisoner, was convicted in 1932 for the murder of Stephen Ellis, salesman, whom he alleged attempted to attack his daughter. The funeral will be held in Bridgewater, home of the former business school teacher. The daughter, Lona, is the sole survivor. . . ."

Wincing every time she thought of that merciless publicity, Lona tried to keep Jim and her life in the city out of her mind. "Convict's daughter . . . lifer . . ." The printed words seemed etched into her very soul. They brought back to her all over again the struggle of those first few months, raked up the whole affair.

She was glad, suddenly and defiantly glad, that she hadn't made any friends. Glad there was nobody she loved to see what she was going through. Glad, most of all, that she hadn't yet given to Jim the right to share her troubles with her!

"Are you sure there's nobody you want notified, my dear?" the old minister had asked her in his kindly voice as he prepared for the funeral. "No distant relatives or friends, perhaps?"

He paused to scan her lined young face pityingly, and she swallowed back a lump in her throat, fighting against a sudden weakening of her resolution. After all, it would be so easy to send for Jim. He'd come, she knew he'd come.

"There's nobody," she said hastily. "I'll have to bury him alone. He'd want it that way."

It was hard for her to realize that it was the last thing she'd ever do for Daddy, as she stood, slight and straight in her black dress next day, and heard the minister's final, benevolent prayer. The last time she would see his white, peaceful face. Never to clasp his hand again, never to be able to tell him—about Jim! . . . Only the sea of curious faces crowded into the hot, stuffy little parlor kept her from sobbing aloud.

All of Bridgewater had come to the funeral, it seemed. She had wanted it to be private, but the minister had persuaded her it was unwise. And so she was obliged to let them come and stare. A few of them were genuinely concerned, but the most were hostile and avidly curious.

They followed her even to the raw new grave, etched like a brown scar on the rolling green of the churchyard cemetery. Standing with her back to the battery of eyes that devoured her silently, it seemed in that moment that her heart was broken beyond repair.

"I am the Resurrection and the Life," the minister's kindly voice had intoned, reverently, but she found in the ancient words no comfort.

"He that believeth in Me, though he be dead, yet will he live again." Dry eyed she had heard it through. Her determination not to break beneath the combined stare of all the eyes eager for her every movement kept her shoulders straight and her figure erect as she stood beside the minister's wife. Fists clenched, she took one sobbing breath as they motioned her it was time to turn away.

"Goodby, Daddy," she murmured. "Sleep tight. . . ."

She looked almost defiant as the minister's kindly hand on her arm guided her toward the waiting car. Stiffly she climbed inside, still upheld by that desperate resolve not to gratify the ghoulish desire of the crowd for a sensational breakdown. Once, inside, and hidden from view, she collapsed brokenly, and sobbed on the old minister's shoulder.

Medford's deputy marshall, Paul Hanlin, was given orders to serve a subpoena to a man wanted for appearance at a trial who was reported to be living in the wilds of Curry county. Hanlin motored more than fifty miles before his car bogged down and then he had to hike sixteen miles through snow and rugged country before he got his man.

Kansan Offers Words to Work on Spelling Bee

OTTAWA, Kans. (AP)—It's taken years but Arza B. Fogle of Williamstown, Kans., thinks he finally has a list of words that will defy any speller.

Frequently, says Fogle, a word is a long one but it is simple to spell because it is spelled the way it sounds. "Take," he said, "choledocholithotomy. That is just a beginner's practice word."

Here's Fogle's list: "Shillelagh, marijuana, misogynist, plebeian, plaguy, facilely, vilify, mnemonic, pinochle, yttrocerite, caoutchouc, phthiriasis and embonpoint."

FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1939.

Some folks seem to have forgotten that "the American way of life" includes work.

The Hollywood matrimonial motto seems to be: "If at first you don't succeed, fail, fail again."

Listeners say that daytime radio serials are "very sad"—or not unlike some of the evening jokes.

Difficulties of Neutrality.

CREDITED with the best of intentions, the neutrality law of the United States appears ineffective in accomplishing the purposes for which it was intended, and will quite likely be repealed.

In theory, a neutrality law seems practical enough, but when confronted by the complications of actual warfare in other countries it doesn't measure up to requirements of disinterested onlookers.

A position of absolute neutrality was probably much simpler back in the time when it was customary to declare war in advance of starting hostilities, but the more recent method of carrying on undeclared wars, as in China, Ethiopia, and the aggression of Hitler in Austria and Czechoslovakia, has tended to confuse the issue of deciding when a "state of war" actually exists.

There is also discussion of a proposed constitutional amendment to require a referendum before war can be declared. This is another attractive theory which would clash with the actualities of impending war.

When, for any reason, the brink of war is reached, events do not await the outcome of referendums, and immediate action is essential.

While the United States is a democracy, insofar as rights of the citizens are concerned, it is necessary that majority wishes shall be expressed through chosen representatives—and it is in consideration of this need that the Constitution gives congress authority to declare war, ordinarily on advice of the president, who is also the people's representative.

It seems unlikely that the nation will ever be carried into a war which majority public opinion does not sanction, although consent may not have been formally sought and obtained.

Public opinion in the United States strongly favors peace, and policies of government which will come nearest to assuring continuance of peace—but there is also quite general realization that conditions exist which constitute a war menace, unless adequate defensive steps are taken.

Requirement for a war referendum would be comparable to calling a council meeting to consider inadequate water supply after a fire has started.

Slow Payers Cause Trouble.

A DENTIST, commenting on the times and the people, tells that he had one family of patients who never paid a bill until compelled to do so. They had a good home and a comfortable income, but they hated to pay bills. "Why, a collector will have to make three calls to collect a small bill from them," the dentist said. He didn't go on to say that such behavior was the start of a vicious cycle. That idea was expressed for him and others long ago by an American newspaper which ran the following on March 8, 1837:

"Pay for your paper—if you do not pay—the editor cannot pay—the publisher cannot pay—the printer cannot pay—the paper maker cannot pay—the man employed in the paper mill cannot pay—the stationer cannot pay—the merchant will suffer loss—the tailor will be injured—the shoemaker may fail—the butcher and market man will be disappointed, etc. All these will be injured—their engagements will be broken—their credit will be lost—their character will be tarnished—their feelings must be wounded—their families must suffer—their business will be ruined—the paper must cease—the community remain in ignorance for the want of it—and all because you would not pay for your paper."

Educational Football.

FOOTBALL should be abolished unless it is given back to the students for educational purposes," says Dr. Alexander Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan. "The game has degenerated to a ridiculous extent into an extravagant spectacle from which no worthwhile advantage will ever accrue."

This is an interesting declaration, but a little hard to follow. It assumes that football was originally educational instead of being merely exercise and fun. Also that football has been taken away from the students and used in a way they did not want and do not approve.

Is this a fact? Most outside observers and patrons of the game have had an impression that football developed from a humble exercise and sport into a great public spectacle, having little real connection with college education, because that was what the students wanted.

If the students didn't want it, or if they don't want it now, with all its subsidy, commercial and circus characteristics, they can easily reform it.

Profitable Refugees.

SIR SAMUEL HOARE, home secretary in the present British government, made a striking announcement the other day. Among German and Austrian refugees who sought asylum in England some time ago, he said, 11,000 are prospering and have, so far, provided employment for 15,000 Britons. Far from being a handicap to British industrial recovery, they are furthering it.

It must be admitted that British foresight helped, too. The authorities had built factories for small industries in some of the distressed areas, such as the mining districts. A low rent was asked. Many of these plants were taken by refugees who were expert in manufactures new to the British Isles. They got the new industries going and prospering, thus taking care of themselves and the additional 15,000 Britons. A good showing for a group suffering terror and exile.

With per capita cash at $50 and per capita debt at $350, everything is lovely—as viewed by the New Deal per capitas.

Why should there be such trouble about recognizing Franco—he looks very much the same.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Tightly as he is now cloistered in the midst of a totalitarian state, the new Pope, Pius XII, will have a recollection at least of a brief period over here where democracy does a better job of it.

He came to the United States two years ago while he was Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, and, among other things, spoke before the National Press club.

He was a dignified and gracious person, although probably not in his whole experience as a cardinal had he ever such a close up experience with a buoyant free press in a democracy. He was invited to speak at a luncheon and the place was packed to the doors.

Like 'One of the Boys.'

HE TOOK his place at the head table without the slightest ceremony and chatted with newspapermen who sat at his elbows. Probably never again in his lifetime will he be able to meet so casually either with news men or with any others, for that matter. From now on he is a person set apart.

Photographers blazed away at him to record in pictures one of the few instances in which he ever availed himself of an opportunity to address a gathering where so many churches, or creeds, or lack of creeds were represented. There were all sorts, from observant Catholics to Communists. The Press club bars no faiths or following—and there are reporters here from Communist papers in this country as well as in Russia, together with representatives of newspapers in the totalitarian states.

He is a moderately tall man and decidedly spare. Strong cheek bones stand out prominently. He wore glasses with noticeably heavy lenses. His eyes were brown and his skin olive-toned in the hue native to Italians.

He had a thin, high bridged nose, from which deep lines descended to the corners of his mouth. Such lines characterize men who speak publicly often. Such lines are deeply etched in the faces of a dozen senators who have hewn out legislation under the hammer of debate.

His dress was a simple black robe and he wore a long gold chain supporting a crucifix.

Typical Secretary of State.

HE SPOKE off-the-record, although, as we remember, little was conveyed in his message that might not have been published without creating any special disturbance either in this country or abroad. Secretaries of state are a reasonably reticent group, wherever you find them.

He spoke English clearly, although with a decided accent, his voice a note higher pitched than common. His speech was given extemporaneously and was most memorable for his manner of choosing the precise word to express thoughts he undoubtedly was thinking not in English but in Italian. It is an intriguing experience to see a scholarly man, speaking in an unfamiliar language, search around diligently in his mind and finally come up with exactly the word you had in mind he should use.

Some 22,000,000 Catholics in the United States as well as others here have an interest in knowing that a man occupying such a vital place in the world has had at least a quickie tour of the United States.

SAVE THAT UNION SUIT!

Sees Danger In Muzzling Isms

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

The funniest feature of German and Italian reaction to speeches at our recent Sesquicentennial Congressional celebration in Washington was embodied in the totalitarian governments' super resentment at the suggestion that Nazi-ism and Fascism far from being anything new, simply are reversions to the dark ages, or even the predark ages. Berlin and Rome are prepared for attacks on their respective present systems; they take the position that said systems are so young and original as not yet to be understood here or in other democratic countries. But it makes 'em boil to have it intimated that they're mere copy-cats from the days of medieval despotism, the pharaohs and earlier.

Hughes

Japan isn't so sore, for the Japanese never have pretended, with any sincerity, to have emerged yet from the Samurai era. The Germans and the Italians, however, are driven fairly wild at the suggestion that they've retrograded by a few centuries. To be sure, their governments have issued nothing official on the subject, but their press gives plenty of voice to their feelings — and everyone is well aware that their press is as official as their governments.

Once on a time, within my recollection, Germany's newspapers were nearly as independent as our own. Occasionally an editor was overhauled on a "lese majeste" charge but that was for getting too personal relative to royalty—not on general political principles. And he had a semi-fair trial; he wasn't slammed into a concentration camp without a hearing. It was a moderately free press.

As for Italian journals — they were downright libelous. Illustratively, Benito Mussolini ran a daily in Milan, and he was so anti-governmental that, as we know, he argued the nation into a revolution. But now let an Italian paper say anything against Signor Mussolini — and watch what happens to its editor.

Congressman Sol Bloom.

Congressman Sol Bloom of New York had more than any other single individual to do with arranging the national legislative chamber's sesquicentennial celebration. In fact, I think he inspired it. No earlier congressional anniversary ever was celebrated.

Congressman Bloom is a specialist on American history and its personalities—George Washington, adoption of the Constitution, congressional sesquicentennials. What next? He'll think of something, all right. Congressman Bloom, by the way, was one of Mussolini's first friends in this republic. He was acquainted with Benito when the latter still was a comparatively obscure Milan newspaperman, who called himself a very advanced liberal. Sol naturally doesn't like him so well any more.

Except among the "bund" folks, Herr Hitler never has had any admirers here, but Signor Mussolini had a good many for a while. He hasn't now, though.

There were three propositions embodied in the three essential speeches on congressional sesquicentennial day:

1—Chief Justice Hughes summarized what the U. S. got out of independence.

2—President Roosevelt summarized what, in particular, we've got to hang onto.

3—Speaker Bankhead warned us against Nazi-ism's and Fascism's internal "dirty work," in an effort, right in our own midst, to undermine democracy.

The Hughes and Roosevelt talks call for no comment. What we got is OK and of course we want to hang onto it.

Let 'Em Cackle

But Speaker Bankhead hinted at the possible desirability of muzzling Nazi-istic and Fascist public expression in Yankeeland in the public's own interest. But is it in the public's own interest?

My dope would be, "Let 'em fulminate."

It may be permissible to deport alien cranks as nuisances, but I question that, even.

It's beneficial to let 'em squawk, I'd say.

Timely Editorial

Clear Conscience—15c.

Western Union was pleasantly surprised the other day by receipt of a letter containing 15 cents in stamps.

It came from an unknown person who wrote "It is to pay for an insulator that I broke on your lines. I broke it on purpose, and it has bothered me ever since. I want a clear conscience."

Surely no clear conscience was ever bought at a cheaper price.

But there must be a lot more consciences which are either less clear or less sensitive. For Western Union reports that during the past 60 years, 20,000,000 such glass insulators have been broken by thoughtless boys.

It is a strange instinct that leads boys to be destructive. Probably few American men have never in their lives taken a casual shot at those alluring glass knobs with a .22 rifle or air-gun.

It is only in later years, when they have seen and known the effort and the toil that goes into the producing of all things, that men grow less inclined to destroy promiscuously and without reason.—Fremont News-Messenger.

Health Advice

New Vitamin In Jaundice Cases.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

JUST HOW many there are of those magic substances know as vitamins, which are present in all well-balanced diets and which keep so many essential functions in our bodies going, we do not know yet.

The first one which was identified has come to be known as vitamin B. Soon after its discovery vitamin A, the anti-infective agent; C, the anti-scurvy agent; D, the anti-rickets agent, were added to the list. B itself was broken up into several divisions, one of which is known as vitamin G. Many other vitamins have been suggested, but all have not been accepted by the scientific world. The latest to come into the picture are vitamins K and E.

Vitamin K could not have been discovered until quite lately because we did not know enough of the functions over which it exerts control to recognize it.

Tendency to Bleed.

For many years it has been known that patients with jaundice have a tendency to bleed excessively, but the exact mechanism of this derangement has not been understood. Within recent years it had been found that it is a particular property of bile to form compounds with a number of substances in the intestine so thta they can be absorbed. In jaundice bile is absent from the intestine and, therefore, this union and absorption does not take place and the body is deprived of substances valuable in nutrition.

In experimental animals, such as rats, in which the bile has been deviated away from the intestinal tract, it is found that a slight cut or injury, such as snipping off the tail, will result in bleeding so prolonged and severe as to cause death. When, however, bile is fed by mouth to these animals, along with substances which contain vitamin K, this tendency to hemorrhage is stopped. Vitamin K is, therefore, considered to be a factor which in some way increases ability of the blood to clot.

Vitamin K is present in most normal diets. The best sources of vitamin K are green leaves. Many substances rich in other vitamins are very poor sources for vitamin K. Thus, cereals, carrots, potatoes, lemon juice, yeast, cod liver oil and wheat germ oil are poor sources. Tomatoes, hemp seed and soya bean are moderately good sources.

The best source of vitamin K in the vegetable world is probably alfalfa, and I mentioned a story in this column last fall which illustrated the actual use of alfalfa as a medicine for a patient who was very sick with jaundice. In a natural human diet of course, alfalfa is out, and we probably get our vitamin K from such green vegetables as we eat, from tomatoes and meat. It probably takes very little vitamin K to supply our needs.

The practical importance of these researches is very considerable for the surgeon. The surgeon has always been afraid to operate on a patient with jaundice on account of danger of hemorrhage. Now it is known that vitamin K can be introduced into the blood and will reduce the tendency to hemorrhage.

Three Brave Songs.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

YES, they come to me, too. Those lost and lonely hours. When nothing counts. And no one answers. And all my life seems aimless, cast adrift. As, maybe, yours does now.

What do I do when they come? I'll tell you . . . perhaps it'll help. I read three brave songs. All my life I've read them, when things went wrong — and never yet have they failed me.

The first was written by a gentle genius whose life was one long bout with poverty and pain—Sidney Lanier. The lines I quote were reddened, even as he wrote, by the death-wrack of tuberculosis. A little more care, a few more dollars, and he might have been spared—and the world enriched forever by his gifts. He knew this . . . tasted all the bitterness of his frustration. Yet knowing it, he still could write—

"As the marsh-hen secretly builds on the watery sod,
"Behold, I will build me a nest on the greatness of God;
"I will fly in the greatness of God as the marsh-hen flies
"In the freedom that fills all the space 'twixt the marsh and the skies;
"By so many roots as the marsh-grass ends in the sod
"I will heartily lay me a-hold on the greatness of God."

Dying, cough by cough, through dreadful years, Sidney Lanier could yet lay him "a-hold of the greatness of God." YET MY CLUTCH SLIPS AT SUCH A LITTLE TEST!

That is the verse that I read when my faith fails. And when my courage falters I turn to another who also wrung his song from tortured flesh . . . and the more tragic conflict of a tangled spirit and a broken heart. Born in poverty, fed on scant crumbs of education, William Ernest Henley was a helpless, hospitalized invalid at 25. Nor did the shadows which hung over his youth ever lift. Struck, he struck back. Made enemies. Did things that gangrened his soul with remorse. And fell, heart-broken, when he lost the thing he idolized—his little girl. Yet even so, could cry—

"Out of the night that covers me,
"Black as the pit from pole to pole,
"I thank whatever gods may be
"For my unconquerable soul.

* * *

"It matters not how straight the gate,
"How charged with punishment the scroll,
"I am the master of my fate:
"I am the captain of my soul!"

Desperate and distraught, William Henley yet could say "I am the captain of my soul!" YET I SURRENDER TO SUCH TRIVIAL FEARS!

And the last song I turn to in the worst hour of all—when life itself seems senseless — without Plan or Planner in the scheme of things. Yet the man who wrote this third and greatest song had seen everything crumble to ashes in his veined old hands. Though he sat on a throne . . . though he had known and could still command such lust and joy, such pride and power and towering glory as seldom some to humanity . . . the thought of it touched him no more. He had passed beyond desire and beyond fear . . . he had found a taller hope, a wider peace. And now there rose in King David's heart a song that was to live through all the ages . . . and comfort all the weak and frightened souls it touched.

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want . . . He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters. He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake . . .

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me . . . Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil: my cup runneth over . . . Surely, goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Yes, I too know those lost and lonely hours. But when they come, I turn to these—and they "restore my soul." I pray they comfort yours!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Vignettes of the town:

Striking waiters doing a musical comedy routine clog before a Broadway restaurant, and merrily chanting something about somebody being "unfair." . . . The new two-piece evening gowns, with skirts and waists of different color. . . . George M. Cohan chatting with Andre Kostelanetz, and hearing all about the tiny egg Kosty's wife's (Lily Pons) pet canary has laid.

To the things that make me grit my teeth add actors who wear spotted calf-skin vests. . . . There are a lot of them around. . . . Sign in Sixth avenue: "Faces lifted without cutting—noses reshaped." . . . Broadway Sam, the theatrical ticket man, with his opal ring and white carnation. . . . Al Roth, the musician, who left off his initial and now signs himself Allen Roth to keep from being confused with Al Roth, the pugilist. . . . He says he did this because so many people were challenging him to fight.

LUNCH stand in the bus terminal sector featuring hash, southern waffles, and chili. . . . Sophie Tucker, the coon shouter, filling the Versailles with loud laughter. . . . A studio in 43rd street that offers modern dancing at $40 for six lessons. . . . A studio in 3rd avenue that guarantees to make you a finished dancer in 10 lessons for $10. . . .

Willie, the blind newsboy on the Bowery. . . . Only twice in five years have people cheated him. . . . He says he can spot a spurious coin the moment his fingers touch it. . . . Gray Gordon, the orchestra leader, calmly appropriating a red carnation from a vase on a cafe table and transferring it to his dinner jacket lapel. . . . The look of horror on a Broadway clerk's face when I suggested that he cash a check for me. . . . Traffic policemen grinning at chilly weather from behind their earmuffs.

LEW LESLIE'S "Blackbirds of 1939," alas, had no such happy encore as that which featured an earlier venture of his on Broadway. In the score of his first show was a song that caught at the imagination and swept through town, so that in a little while everybody was going to hear a dusky lass croon a ditty called "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby." From a poor beginning the revue became a hit and lasted a year on Broadway.

Apparently there was no tune in his recent revue that the public wanted to whistle and hum, for it faded out on the black type of critical apathy.

It was a similar circumstance that made a hit out of the musical comedy "Roberta" a few seasons back. Most of the critics shook their heads. They didn't denounce it, but neither were they enthusiastic. After a slow start it began to catch on, and the reason can be attributed to a dark-eyed, brunette Russian singer of melancholy songs, Tamara, who advanced to the footlights, lazily flicking a guitar and warbled a lover's lament called "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes."

People were unable to forget the lonely, pleading voice of that girl singing "When Your Heart's on Fire . . . you must realize . . . smoke gets in your eyes."

A Farmer's Diary

The Country Sale.

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I WENT to my friend's sale. He is an old man, who has farmed for many years.

"The children wanted us to quit and make sale, long ago," he said, "but so long as Mom was able we put it off. Now we'll have to get a little place near town. It's hard to part with the old things, though. I was born in that old house we use to butcher in and wash and such. And Mom has some of the furniture yet we had when we began keeping house. We won't have room for it in the new place."

While he was talking I had been noticing the farm implements, oldtime relics, butchering tools, fireplace gadgets, two buggies and a sleigh, crocks of all sizes, pictures and copper kettles that were lined up along the drive.

The crowd was already arriving. They lined the road with cars, and thronged onto the lawn, the barn, the farmhouse, eyeing curiously the articles put up for sale, and gossiping together in friendly fashion.

The crier announced the terms of the sale, that every article would be sold for cash to the highest bidder, settlement to be made before leaving the premises. Then he started to sell the smaller articles piled on the bed of an old sled. The bob sled brought a dollar; the buggies fifty cents each—the sleigh a quarter.

"That slid many a fancy couple along, in its day," the crier said. "It ought to be worth more."

The household goods was put up. I saw the grayhaired wife of my old friend turn away in tears, to the kitchen, after she had placed some lovely old dishes in the crier's hands.

Presently the farmer led his two fine bay horses out. He stood between them, and their noses nuzzled his wrinkled cheeks as he told their ages and their working qualities. His voice shook and almost broke. "I only hope the man who gets this team, will treat 'em kind and feed 'em good," he said. "If he does, they'll do anything he asks them to."

HUGE AIR BASE IN COAST'S OIL CENTER URGED

Kern County in California Is Strategic Point in U. S. Defense Program.

(By United Press)

BAKERSFIELD, Cal.—Military observers predict that Kern county, with its huge oil reserves and protecting range of high mountains, will be a west coast focal point in President Roosevelt's program for a "continental defense system."

Spurring its million-dollar drive to bulwark the United States' defenses, the national administration has indicated it will center much attention on the west coast. Kern county has drawn the attention of military experts seeking a logical center for a strong army air base. Key factors in the county's strategic value are its immense petroleum reserves, its modern airport, recently designated by the civil aeronautics authority for extensive improvements, and its huge bombing and target range at Muroc Dry lake—the largest in the world.

Inspected by Congressmen.

A group of congressmen, including Admiral William H. Standley, paid close attention to the county's importance as a defense center when it visited oil fields and refineries in this vicinity.

Arrival of the committee simultaneously with announcement by the CAA of its plan to make costly improvements at the local airport was regarded as an important step in the prospective development of this area as a Pacific coast defense sector.

Military strategists deem the county's oil fields especially important because in event of war they would be a chief source of fuel for airplanes.

Protected by Mountains.

Protected on the west and south by mountain ranges, the county is less subject to attack by air and land than coastal areas.

Already equipped with a directional radio beam station and one of the largest airplane hangars in the nation, the Kern county airport is slated for extensive enlargement and improvement, according to Cecil Meadows, field superintendent. The CAA proposes to extend the boundaries and flood light system, put in a 6,000 foot and a 4,000 foot runway and construct a radio control tower, Meadows said.

The superintendent, a veteran flier, said improvement of the airport should make it "the equal of any in the United States." The field recently was described by Maj. Gen. Paul B. Malone, retired army officer, as "one of the best" he had seen in this country.

PETIT JURORS FINISH WORK

Hear Only 2 of 7 Cases Slated for Trial This Week in County Court.

The county petit jury had recessed indefinitely today after hearing only two of seven cases scheduled for trial this week. Four other cases were settled or dismissed, and in the fifth the jury was waived.

After evidence was heard yesterday in a suit for industrial compensation, the case was dismissed on a motion of the defendant which contended that the evidence was insufficient for cause of action.

In the case Hobart Mynhier sought compensation for the death of Leonard Mynhier three years ago while employed by C. A. Black of Shelby.

The dismissal was on the motion of Benjamin M. Patterson, assistant attorney general, who represented the Ohio Industrial commission, defendant in the case.

In the only other case tried before the jury, a verdict of $5,000 was returned for the Motor Fuel Co-operative of Mansfield, Inc., for breach of contract involving the lease of a filling station property at Fifth and Main streets.

The jury was waived in a $5,706 damage suit against C. F. Robbins, and Judge C. H. Huston heard the evidence and took it under advisement. The suit, involving a traffic accident, was filed by Oscar H. Foulke and the Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company.

YOUNG FATHER FINDS THAT LAW NEVER FORGETS

Sentenced to O. S. R. Few Hours After Arrest on Old Non-Support Charge.

A young Mansfield father who thought county authorities would forget a non-support indictment returned against him two and a half years ago had learned today that the law doesn't forget.

Eugene Lewis, 24, came back home a week ago after a long absence. Today he was under a one-to-three-year sentence in the Mansfield reformatory after pleading guilty to an indictment returned by a grand jury in September, 1936.

Sentence was imposed by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston yesterday after Lewis was arrested at his home at 252 North Main street, by Deputy Sheriffs G. C. Humphrey and F. E. Robinson.

Lewis told officers he had spent the last two and a half years in western states and returned to Mansfield because he believed the indictment had been forgotten. He was charged with failing to support his minor child who was only nine months old when he left Mansfield.

Admits Assault.

Also appearing before Judge Huston yesterday was Frank Reddick, 50, of near Shiloh, who pleaded guilty to a charge of assault and battery.

Judge Huston deferred sentence until Monday to permit Joseph Zmejack, who Reddick admitted assaulting, to recover sufficiently to appear in court. Reddick provided a $200 bond and was released from county jail.

The charge against him resulted from an altercation Tuesday night at Zmejack's home near Shiloh. Zmejack was taken to the Williard hospital.

DUE BENEFITS

Workers Reaching 65 Told to File for Security Payments.

Employers in the Mansfield district today were asked by the Social Security board to inform their workers that they are entitled to receive certain payments upon reaching the age of 65, providing their employment is covered by the Social Security Act.

"If employers will inform us that certain workers are eligible for these benefits," R. G. Mish, manager of the Mansfield field office of the board, said, "we will take all the necessary steps to see that the claims are paid."

Mish explained that eligible workers are entitled to a single cash payment amounting to 3½ per cent of the covered wages they have earned between Jan. 1, 1937, and the date upon which an individual worker has reached the age of 65.

"It is not necessary for a worker to retire from work to receive this money," Mish added, pointing out that the field office located in the Richland Trust building here provides all necessary service in filing claims.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Summer vacation is near enough at hand now that books of other people's vacations will be especially interesting. "The Far-Distant Oxus" is a story written by two girls, aged 15 and 16, of the glorious adventures of six English children in the moors above the river they named the Oxus. These boys and girls named all the places in which they lived and where they played for similar places in Persia that they knew of from reading "Sohrab and Rustum." Most of their adventures were planned by Maurice, their mysterious neighbor and playmate. The introduction to the book is written by Arthur Ransome, a favorite children's author.

"The Secret of Silver Peak," by Sarah Lindsay Schmidt, describes the heroic efforts of Cynthia Fulton to "hang on" as the owner and chief herder of a large herd of Angora goats after her grandfather's death. A vein of gold in an abandoned mine helps to solve some difficulties but brings others. The tale is full of mystery and adventure which make it interesting for older boys and girls.

SETTLEMENT APPROVED

Approval of a $157 settlement of a personal injury claim for Shirleen Reiter, 14, Mansfield, had been approved today in probate court, with the girl's father, Fred Reiter, authorized to accept the settlement from Albert Stirtzinger, Mansfield. Stirtzinger driver of a car which struck the girl, also agreed to pay $10.50 court costs.

MEN LOVE GIRLS WITH PEP

If you are peppy and full of fun, men will invite you to dances and parties.

BUT if you are crass, listless and tired, men won't be interested. Men don't like "quiet" girls. When they go to parties they want girls along who are full of pep.

So in case you need a good general system tonic, remember for 3 generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling girl" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps build up more physical resistance and thus aids in giving you more pep and lessens distress from female functional disorders.

You'll find Pinkham's Compound WELL WORTH TRYING!

ARCHERY CHAMP PUTS ON SHOW FOR STUDENTS

Five-Time National Titleholder Gives Demonstration at Senior High Assembly.

Senior high school students were shown the fine points in archery this afternoon when Russell Hoogerhyde, five-time national archery champion, gave a demonstration in the high school auditorium.

Hoogerhyde, a Chicago business man, is known as the greatest living bowman, and has held the national archery championship five times since 1930, losing it only those years business kept him from competing in the national tournaments.

In addition to his demonstration in archery, he also told of the history of the bow and arrow. His demonstration included the shooting of blunt arrows through boards and steel-tipped shafts through steel.

Hoogerhyde appeared at the school as one of the assembly programs furnished the school by the School Assembly Service of Chicago.

Noon day dancing was revived today at the school by the Student Representative Council after a lapse of about five months. The dances are to be held every Friday in the gymnasium during the lunch period. Proceeds from the dances will be used to help defray the expenses of printing the Red and White hand book, published recently by the council.

This will mark the first noon dance at the school since last Sept. 30. Joan Locke is chairman of a committee in charge of the dances.

Change in date of a school dance scheduled to be held April 6 under sponsorship of the high school band, was announced today by Betty Frye, chairman of the dance committee. The dance was postponed until Thursday, April 20, due to the observance of Holy Week during the week of April 2. The event will be held in the school gymnasium.

The motion picture "Submarine D-1" will be shown next week at the school for the noon-day show. The picture opens Monday and will continue through Friday, and will be shown in serial form with two reels being presented each day.

GALION HOST TO WOMEN'S CLUBS OF THREE CITIES

Business and Professional Group Entertained; State President Talks.

GALION—An inter-city meeting of the Business and Professional Woman's club brought guests from Ashland, Bucyrus and Mansfield to Galion Thursday evening when the local club entertained at the Peace Lutheran parish house. There were covers for 100 members and guests when a dinner was served at 6.30 p. m. Attractive decorations of Shamrocks and cut flowers were used, and individual Shamrock booklets contained the songs which were sung between the courses of the meal under the leadership of Louise Lorentz.

Edna Smith, president of the local club, extended a welcome and introduced the guest speaker, H. Pearl Von Au of Cleveland, state president of the organization. She told of activities of the different clubs in the state and also of legislation which is pending and being passed that is of special interest to women. She was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Bemiller in initiation service for two new members, Virginia Sydenstricker and Mrs. Carl Bates.

Following this service the entire group assembled in the auditorium of the parish house where they listened to two numbers played by a instrumental trio composed of Charles Line, Richard Horn and Miss Lorentz, and two songs by Franklin Craun. A one-act play was presented by Helen Britton, Elizabeth Bland, Ed Jones and Richard Rose. Entertainers were introduced by the program chairman, Ella Lust.

Arrangements for the meeting were in charge of the educational and research committee of which Grace Weston is chairman, and the magazine committee headed by Ruby Wolf.

Shelby Officials Consider Expenditure of $10,000 to Remodel Building.

SHELBY — Approximately $10,000 will be spent this spring on the renovation of the city hall, city officials disclosed today. Tentative plans are being considered today by city officials.

The changes to the hall are planned to provide more space for the city offices which are at present crowded on the ground floor of the building. At present the mayors office and utilities' office are in the same room, while the front room on the ground floor houses the finance director's office and offices for the municipal electric and water companies.

The proposed plans will move a number of the city offices to the second floor where a large hall will be utilized for smaller office rooms. A modern council chamber is also planned for the second floor. The city council now meets in the mayor's office.

A large lobby will be located at the front of the ground floor under the proposed plans, while the mayor's office would be moved to the second story. The utilities offices would remain on the ground floor with the finance director's office. An information booth would be built in the front lobby.

Under the present plans, the larger share of the expense of the project would be paid from the funds of the city electric company.

JAPS OPEN WAY FOR AIR BASE IN COSTA RICA

Knickerbocker Describes Big 'Cotton Field' That Answers Need for Warplanes.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Japan has established a potential military air field in Costa Rica only 300 miles from the Panama Canal, H. R. Knickerbocker, the noted foreign correspondent of International News Service, reveals in the following dispatch. Knickerbocker, the first American newspaperman to visit this grave menace to American security, describes the field in full detail and discloses for the first time the manner in which Japan obtained her foothold on the North American continent.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER

(Copyright 1939 by International News Service. Reproduction in Whole or Part Strictly Prohibited.)

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica — Because the American island of Guam is 1,500 miles "near" Japan, the Japanese declared it would be an unfriendly act if we fortified the island, our own territory. Today the Japanese have established a potential military airfield just 300 miles from the Panama canal, and provided themselves with a base whence a fleet of fast bombers could reach America's life-line in 90 minutes.

Ideal For Planes.

I flew over and photographed this field, the first time it has been visited by an American newspaperman. It is one square mile of the flattest, smoothest, best drained land in Costa Rica, two miles from the unguarded shore of the Pacific ocean, about 15 miles from Puntarenas, on the Gulf of Nicoya. On it are engaged today 30 Japanese "farmers." They say they are "growing cotton." Their boss is a reserve officer of the Japanese navy.

I asked the president of Costa Rica, His Excellency Dr. Leon Cortez Castro, why the Japanese should be permitted to maintain so obvious a threat to the vital national defense interests of the United States. The president reassuringly answered:

"That so-called Japanese airfield is a legend. About 10 families of Japanese recently came here to do cotton planting near Alajuela and Puntarenas. The main reason was Japan's unfavorable balance of trade and her desire to grow cotton in Costa Rica which Japan could then buy. Under no circumstances could Costa Rica make common cause with any country against the United States."

The president's sincerity is beyond question. He is undoubtedly a true friend of the United States. Nevertheless expert judgment on the Japanese field differs from the president's and the opinion of military and naval men is without exception that the field is indubitably intended for an air base

Ideal for Air Base.

The field could not have been better designed for a base from which to attack the Panama Canal if its present owners had been able to ask for bids on the following specifications: "Wanted, an air base capable of accommodating large fleet of heavy bombers; field must be absolutely level, dry and near the sea. Good road to seashore necessary and beach must be suitable for landing in small boats. Field must be located in country with no coastal defense, and a minimum army."

Meeting these specifications, the field is in Costa Rican measurements, 350 "manzanas" in area or 595 acres, or just under one square mile, and its diagonal provides a runway long enough for the takeoff or bombers loaded to capacity The field is level as a billiard table. It is drained by the nearby Barranca river, which leaves it dry even in the rainy season when the surrounding country is swamped.

In 15 minutes a slow truck can haul a heavy load from the beach to the field. The beach slopes gently at the precise gradient most favorable for landing small boats laden with men or materials. The position is ideal for landing secretly. Large bodies of men could come ashore from freighters and considerable supplies could be landed by night without detection. Airplanes in parts, gasoline and bombs could be put off ordinary commercial vessels and smuggled in to the "cotton plantation" with no one to witness. Costa Rica has no coast guard, and its army numbers around 400 men. Normally nearly all of them are in the capital.

Only Two Obstacles.

None of them are anywhere near "Elchaguite" the Costa Rican name of the Japanese "cotton plantation." Between the headquarters of the imperial Japanese navy in Japan and its farthest outpost here there are in fact only two obstacles: one Costa Rican policemen in Puntarenas and about 8,000 miles of Pacific ocean.

It is precisely the function of "El Chaguite" to help the Japanese navy span those 8,000 miles. At this moment the United States fleet is in the Atlantic, the approach of a Japanese aircraft carrier of any part of the Japanese navy to a point near enough to the canal to arouse suspicion would bring the United States navy posthaste back through the canal into the Pacific.

But the Japanese fleet, or parts of it can cruise freely without arousing suspicion at a distance of 2,000 to 3,000 miles away from the canal. In order to be able to fly from such a distance Japanese bombers would need a refueling field. A bombing plane laden with bombs might do 2,000 miles in one hop. Without its bombs it could do 3,000 miles.

Canal Bombing Easy.

Thus, with a field in Costa Rica, Japanese bombers laden with bombs could take off their carriers at 2,000 miles from the canal. Fly over and drop their bombs on the canal locks, land on their Costa Rican airfield, refuel and fly back to their mothership. Or without bombs they could take off at 3,000 miles away, land first at "El Chaguite," refuel there, take on a load of bombs, fly over and bomb the canal, then return to their Costa Rican base, refuel again and return to their carrier.

From the first appearance of the Japanese planes over Panama and Costa Rica to the completion of their enterprise the time elapsed would not be over three hours.

Is this vision far-fetched? Is this an alarmist view to take of an innocent cotton plantation? United States army and navy authorities do not think it alarmist.

Mr. Takahiro Wakabayashi is Japan's number one agent in Latin America. He is a sort of traveling ambassador and super-spy extraordinary with a territory which he once defined as "everything from the Rio Grande to Tierra Del Fuego." He speaks Spanish, English, French and German as well as his native tongue. He served as consul general in Panama, Bogota, and Buenos Aires and after twelve years in the formal Japanese foreign service, he resigned and came back as general manager of the important semi-official "Federation of Japanese Importers and Exporters."

In this capacity Mr. Wakabayashi took a warm interest in Costa Rica's trade with Japan. He noted with concern that Japan was selling many times more to Costa Rica than she was buying. In 1936, the year Mr. Wakabayashi began to take an interest in the matter, Japan sold Costa Rica goods to the value of $654,947 and bought only $5,121 worth.

This was only natural because Japan does not use much of Costa Rica's principal products, Coffee, bananas and cocoa, while the poorer Costa Ricans demand the cheap Japanese goods. It had always been so, but Mr. Wakabayashi suddenly came forward with an ingenious remedy.

He would teach the Costa Ricans to grow cotton and then Japan would buy the cotton and thereby rectify the trade balance. But first he would have to bring in some Japanese to see if cotton could be grown at all.

LUMBERMENS SHOWS STEADY GAIN IN 1938

Keating Tells Board Premium Income Boosted $159,437; 2 New Officers Named.

The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance company showed a substantial gain in the volume of premiums written, insurance in force, assets and its reserve during 1938, Charles H. Keating, president of the company, said today.

Reporting to the board of directors at their 44th annual meeting here Wednesday, Keating said that the amount of insurance in force was increased during the year by more than $26,000,000. The premium income which totaled $2,181,525 showed an increase of $159,437.

Keating said that an increase in the assets of $202,526 boosted the total assets to a new all-time high of $3,054,908, and that an addition of $100,849 to the reserve raised the total surplus to $1,181,886.

He pointed out however that all bonds of the company were carried on an amortized basis and that if the market value of the bonds were used instead of the amortized value, that the surplus would be boosted to $1,256,759.

In his annual message to the board, Keating said that the difficulty confronting all insurance companies was in investing policyholders' money safely and at the same time securing a reasonable income.

Continues Present Policy

He pointed out that Lumbermens however would continue its present investment policy and would not sacrifice the safety of the policyholders' money in order to obtain a higher investment return.

The board also was told that the continuing trend toward lower insurance rates and the increasing tax burden, which so far has not been passed along to insurance buyers, is making it increasingly difficult for insurance companies to add justifiable amounts to their reserves.

Prior to a meeting of the board of directors, the policyholders re-elected as directors Keating, H. S. Black and P. M. Elliot for three-year terms.

At the directors meeting later, two new officers were elected. They were C. E. Nail, vice president and assistant general manager and S. F. Coffin, vice president.

Other officers re-elected were Keating, president and general manager; E. S. Nail, chairman of the board of directors; W. H. G. Kegg, secretary, and D. P. Smith, treasurer and assistant secretary.

According to the officials, the company is now licensed to transact business in 43 states, the District of Columbia, and four provinces of Canada. The firm is represented by approximately 600 local agents and has branch offices throughout Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

SHOCK BEARS

Western Honey Producers Find Way to Protect 'Crop'

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (INS)—The big black bear of the California mountains may be a pushover for a pot of honey, but his old moist snout is definitely allergic to an electrically charged fence. Aware of this fact, many mountain apiarists, according to a report by the State Department of Agriculture, are warding off depredations of their hives by surrounding their property with charged fences. The jolt is sufficient to shock the bear into a sense of timidity.

Spry

FRENCH JAM PUFFS

Made in a jiffy

½ cup Spry — ½ teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water — 2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup sifted flour — Strawberry jam

Bring Spry and water to boiling point in saucepan. Sift flour with salt. Add to water and beat vigorously until mixture is thick and comes away easily from sides of pan. Remove from fire. Add eggs, one at a time, beating thoroughly after each addition until mixture is smooth.

Drop small amounts from teaspoon into hot Spry (385° F.) and fry until brown. (No smoke or acrid odor when you fry with this pure ALL-vegetable shortening.) Drain on absorbent paper. (Notice what a thin, "dry", digestible crust Spry-fried foods have. And such a delicate flavor!)

Slit puffs and insert a bit of jam in each. Sprinkle with confectioners' sugar. Makes 1½ dozen.

Legislature Speeding Toward April 15 Adjournment

OHIO'S NEEDY AID PROGRAM BEING DRAWN

Committee on Relief Problem Expects to Open Hearings on New Plan Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Prospects of the Ohio legislature completing its work by April 15 were heightened today when Chairman Lawrence Kane of the joint relief committee said he had hopes of preparing a relief program by April 1.

Kane previously had indicated the committee would ask that the deadline for filing the commitee's recommendations be extended to April 15.

Enactment of a relief program appears to be the principal obstacle to completion of the legislature's work within a month.

The committee, composed of five senators and five representatives, will meet at 2:30 p. m., Monday to prepare a schedule of hearings. Kane said hearings probably would be conducted at night and on Fridays.

Present Plans Favored.

Members of the committee, feeling that extensive investigations are not warranted and that they have a good keystone for 18-month program in the temporary $5,000,000 bill already enacted, are not inclined to go outside Columbus to gather evidence.

Members of the legislature were home for the week-end today.

The house defeated yesterday a bill which would have authorized the Ohio Archaeological and Historical society to charge admission of not more than 25 cents at the state's memorials, such as Schoenbrunn Memorial park in Tuscarawas county.

Proponents contended an admission fee was needed to supplement the legislature's appropriations to the society for adequate maintenance of the memorials.

The legislature completed passage of a bill which will reduce from 65 per cent to 55 per cent the favorable vote required to issue bonds for federal works projects at schools. Cleveland will vote March 22 on a $2,500,000 bond issue.

The senate, after deleting an emergency clause, passed a bill to require state officials, making out-of-state trips, to charge the expenses against their departmental appropriation instead of against the state emergency fund.

Milk Nourishing But Not Fattening, Dairymen Are Told

Women who are on a reducing diet can drink milk and still lose weight, W. E. Krauss, dairy specialist at the Ohio Experiment station said last night at the annual Richland county dairymen's dinner.

Asserting that experiments have shown that milk though nourishing, is not fattening. Krauss pointed out that a diet of milk and bananas in the proper proportions is one of the best for losing pounds without losing energy along with it.

"Women and girls usualy steer clear of milk because they think it will make them heavier, but they should realize that it is one of the best foods to give them vigor and a clear complexion," he said.

Milk is valuable chiefly as a source of calcium and it is not an outstanding energy producer, he pointed out. He said the average man who does heavy work needs about one gram of calcium a day while the average meal provides only about four-tenths of a gram.

Krauss was the principal speaker at the dairymen's meeting at the First M. E. church. S. M. Salisbury of the department of dairy husbandry, Ohio State university, who was scheduled to speak, was unable to be here because of illness.

Approximately 80 dairymen and their guests attended the session. Music was provided by an orchestra from the Eugene Smart studio.

Up and Down THE STREET

Without any natural fishing grounds in the northwestern section of the county, sportsmen in that sector are going to do something about it. A group, headed by Dow Horner, Walter Hart and Louis Willis of Shelby, has leased a section of a farm near Shelby where an artificial lake will be built. A dam will be constructed with springs furnishing the water. The lake will be stocked for fishing purposes.

With the county's marriage license business at the lowest mark in more than a year, clerks in the license bureau threatened today — in fun, of course—to start an advertising campaign on the advantages of married life. Only one license has been issued in the county so far this month and not an application has been filed in the past week. Clerks blamed the license "depression" on Lent, which always reduces the number of marriages.

One of those "horror" situations which haunt the dreams of nervous persons, overtook a young Mansfielder last Saturday. Elmer Olson, 8 Washington avenue, cashier at the Sherwin-Williams company store, drove to Cleveland Saturday afternoon for his marriage which was to take place that evening. Three and a half hours before the formal service, he discovered he had left the bag containing his dress suit, his money and the wedding ring in Mansfield. Even the movies never pictured a faster race-against-time than he made back here and then back to Cleveland, a distance of more than 150 miles. He arrived at his wedding breathless but impeccably dressed—only a few minutes late.

CLEARY HEADS LIQUOR AGENTS

Taylor Appoints Cincinnati Detective as Chief of Ohio Enforcement Division.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — William T. Cleary, Cincinnati detective, inherited one of the most exacting jobs in the state today, that of liquor enforcement chief.

Succeeding Al Humphrey, enforcement chief for the past four years under former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Cleary will have the job of cleaning up the state insofar as liquor violations are concerned. He will be paid $5,000 a year.

Liquor Director Jacob B. Taylor indicated that he would appoint an assistant enforcement chief within the next few days to assist Cleary.

The Cincinnati detective, who has been assigned to important cases in the Queen City for more than 20 years, was a bodyguard for former Governor George White in 1934 when reports of threats on White's life were heard in connection with the Dillinger gang.

Two of the Dillinger gangsters, Harry Pierpont and Frank Markley, were awaiting electrocution in the penitentiary when the White threats were heard. Pierpont paid with his life in the chair, while Markley was fatally wounded in an attempted prison break.

Cleary is 50 years old. He is a former Cincinnati policeman and city fireman. He has a son and daughter.

PASTOR POINTS TO CITY'S NEED OF BOARD TO PLAN FOR FUTURE

The need of a planning commission for Mansfield to co-ordinate its needs and work out a forward-looking program was emphasized last night by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of First Lutheran church in his mid-week sermon.

He pointed to the Wednesday night fire in which a Mansfield home was destroyed because there wasn't sufficient water pressure in that district to properly combat the fire; to Mansfield's need for recreational facilities for young people, and to the flagrant indifference to law and order as problems that would face such a commission.

"Why can't a city plan ahead and not wait until catastrophe forces it into action?" he asked.

"We flirt with trouble when we break down respect for law and order," he said. "Our police are doing a commendable job in enforcing traffic regulations and then along comes a technical interpretation which laughs at tickets for violations. Tickets are being torn up and thrown into the streets no matter how much in error the car owner may have been. By weakening the foundation of law enforcement, we play into the hands of thugs and lawbreakers.

"Time and again respectable citizens have warned night clubs to observe common decency at their places. If they disregard these warnings they have only themselves to blame when right thinking people vote them out again.

"Our young people have asked for places of recreation other than the present night clubs. They have asked for 'dry' night clubs. Most of our young people want to do the right thing, and will if given a chance. And Mansfield needs a civic auditorium, with recreational facilities, or a community house with a constructive recreational program. And yet nothing much is done to provide a substitute for the 'hot spots.'

"What this city needs," he concluded, "is a planning commission to co-ordinate all of the needs, all of the movements toward meeting them, and to point to the way to a forward-looking program in recreation, park and auditorium facilities, and in fundamental operating needs."

20 YEARS AFTER!

Company M to Observe 20th Year Since 'Mustering Out.'

Committees were appointed last night at Memorial building to work out plans for the 20th anniversary of "muster out" day of World war veterans of Company M, 146 infantry.

The celebration will be a dinner and program on Thursday, April 13—exactly 20 years after members of the company were mustered out at Camp Sherman, arrived in Mansfield early in the evening and were taken to the Elks club where they were guests of the town for their first dinner at home. The whole town turned out to welcome the boys home.

Clarence Hall, Paul Young and William Carr, all city firemen, were appointed to distribute tickets for the dinner. Fred Birmelin and James Strock are co-chairmen in charge of the celebration.

Spanish war veterans who served in Company M—then the old 8th Ohio—and members of the Supply company of the 146th infantry, will be invited to join in the festivities.

BIG POWERS TO BE CONSULTED ON PROPOSALS

London Observers Predicting Nazis Will Support 'Token Cut' in Armament.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Britain intends to sound out the big powers on the possibility of halting the tremendous arms race which Prime Minister Chamberlain has declared can end only in bankruptcy for Europe if continued at its present pace.

London papers were unanimous this morning in reporting with optimism the projected disarmament efforts.

Political quarters in this connection attached increased importance to the official trade mission which takes R. S. Hudson, secretary for overseas trade, to Berlin next week.

Some thought Hudson might gain support in Berlin for the idea of at least a "token cut" in armaments. Some newspapers predicted that events in the near future would show how much "wishful thinking" motivated present optimism.

Acts During Summer.

The Daily Mail said that "Mr. Chamberlain is planning to call a conference of big powers to consider calling a halt to the arms race in Europe, possibly before the end of the summer.

"Limitation may be aimed at aerial weapons in the first instance . . . if progress could be made in that direction the disarmament discussions might be widened to include world powers, including the United States.

British belief that there was a chance for a successful disarmament venture apparently was based on this reasoning:

That Premier Mussolini's expected claims upon France for colonial adjustment would be more moderate than Italian press agitation has indicated.

That the end of the Spanish civil war would remove the most dangerous immediate threat to European peace.

That Germany admits she is feeling a severe economic pinch because of her tremendous arms expenditures.

No mention was made in government circles about a colonial settlement with Germany, but several cabinet members were said to be convinced the problem should be tackled and, if possible, settled soon.

FARMERS DINE

Arranged by G. L. Taylor, Richland county chairman, the meeting is expected to attract about 200 farmers and their guests.

County and township committeemen who are in charge of administration of the county program will comprise most of the group at the dinner. Each committeeman will be permitted to bring a guest.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Ickes, In Reference to Tobacco Article Should Think of Industry Taxes

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

WASHINGTON—In one of his orations on the duties and derelictions of the press, Harold Ickes, the little Joe Goebbels of the New Deal, insisted that dishonest motives and not objective editorial judgment caused a majority of the newspapers to dead-hook a story about cigarets which, in the words of an authority that he quoted, was sensational enough to "make tobacco users' flesh creep."

I am not going into that argument again, because those who believe that the story was suppressed and not merely spiked will continue to believe that the editors who omitted it did so out of consideration for those who buy space to advertise cigarets. There is no proof by which to unconvince them.

However, it follows that if Mr. Ickes regards the cigaret as a great menace to health, he must favor the abolition of the industry and of the trade in other forms of tobacco as well, the other forms being only slightly less poisonous than the cigaret.

He does not press that point, however, and if he were to do so he probably would catch a swift pop in the mouth from the mild friendly secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Henry Morgenthau, who last year collected in taxes from the manufacture of tobacco, including cigarets, more than $500,000,000.

Even Mr. Roosevelt, a cigaret smoker himself, might reach across the table and whang Mr. Ickes at the next Cabinet meeting, for the tobacco habit is one whose abolition would wreck not only the New Deal but rattle the United States.

The Treasury, which must find the money that Mr. Ickes spends, would lose $568,181,000 a year, vast areas of tobacco land in nine states would become a fresh problem to poor Henry Wallace, thousands of tobacco field hands and factory workers employed not only in tobacco manufacture but in dependent operations would be thrown onto relief or WPA, and there would be ghastly consequences in many other directions.

The $500,000,000 of taxes on cigarets and tobacco manufacture is about half the size of the Treasury's loot from the individual income taxes and about half the size of the corporation income tax revenue. Moreover, individuals and corporations in the tobacco trade are large contributors to the individual and corporation income tax, and if their income were cut off, those totals would drop sharply. It is impossible to estimate how much.

* * *

Tobacco stores pay real estate taxes, consume heat and light, employ thousands of clerks and require the services of a not readily calculable number and variety of workers along a line extending back to the plantation fields and along sidelines into the paper box, packet, label, cellophane, ink, art, writing and typographical trades.

The cancellation of all cigaret and tobacco advertising would break many papers and magazines whose margin between profit and loss is no greater than their income from tobacco copy. The editoral, mechanical and advertising staffs then would be on the street.

Other papers and magazines, losing their income would have to fire workers proportionately, and the load of their support would be shifted almost bodily to the Government, which simultaneously would lose that $500,000,000 and an unknown sum now received in income taxes from persons and firms in the tobacco trade.

Tobacco and iquor pay in the form of direct Treaury taxes alone more than $1,000,000,000 a year, which is more than one sixth of the total receipts.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

"The Little Princess." Screenplay by Ethel Hill and Walter Ferris from novel by Frances Hodgson Burnett. Directed by Walter Lang. Cast: Shirley Temple, Richard Greene, Anita Louise, Ian Hunter, Cesar Romero, Arthur Treacher, Mary Nash, Sybil Jason, Miles Mander, Marcia Mae Jones, Beryl Mercer.

HOLLYWOOD—The box-office queen of Hollywood increases the splendor of her reign by becoming "The Little Princess" of the old favorite book. If Shirley keeps on making films like it, she'll have no trouble continuing her reign despite the encroachment of "old age"—she may even last as long as did Queen Victoria, who figures nicely in the current sentimental tale.

Painstakingly produced with Boss Zanuck's best lavish hand, in technicolor besides, the story of rich little Sara Crewe whose daddy (Hunter) went to fight the Boers and left her at a snobbish boarding school is as richly bedecked as an old-fashioned valentine. Miss Minchin, the school's money-worshipping mistress, becomes almost a legitimate ogre in the capable performance of Mary Nash, who carries off superbly the film's most difficult assignment.

Arthur Treacher as Miss Minchin's likeable brother, Greene, and Miss Louise as the romantics, and Romero as the kindly Ram Dass who waves a wand over the impoverished "princess'" bleak attic, all fit neatly into the pleasant pattern. But the surprise of the piece (Shirley herself being no surprise any longer) is the little girl who plays the Cockney scullery maid Becky. Once launched vainly as a Temple competitor, Sybil Jason here stands out in a solid, heart-tugging characterization that ought to do great things for her future.

Even if you don't like sacharrin in your celluloid, you ought to like "The Little Princess." The sweetness is dealt out with enough restraint and saving humor to make it all palatable. Even the dream sequence (and I've never liked Shirley's dream sequences before) is a click for beauty and natural interpolation. Best chuckle: Shirley on her throne watching Shirley perform in the dream ballet — "She's a good dancer, isn't she?"

Here it is—first of the anticipated cycle of films sprinkled with patriotism and Americanism. It's a western with vocalizing Eddy as the hero who saves the little town from spoilation by the rampaging Iron Horse which comes through in the name of progress and bucks up more dirty work than that cross-roads ever saw before. With fast action and excitement supplied by a star-studded cast, "Let Freedom Ring" is one of those sure-fire pieces. The patriotic tone flavors the whole proceedings, climaxes with Eddy's thrilling version of "America."

"You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." Screenplay by George Marion, jr., Richard Mack, Everett Freeman, from story by Charles Bogle. Directed by George Marshall. Cast: W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd, Constance Moore, John Arledge, James Bush, Thurston Hall, Mary Forbes, Edward Brophy.

A circus background provides a field day for the "feud" between Bergen's McCarthy and the muttering, mumbling Fields—with a slight story thread lost in the scramble. It's a lot of fun, mostly fast, with typical McCarthy-Fields humor and gags flowing freely. But guess who delivers the surprise punch? None other than Mortimer Snerd, McCarthy's country bumpkin rival in block-headedness. This young man might be a starring possibility after all.

And speaking of winter vacations, Mr. and Mrs. John Mahon have just returned from theirs. . . . They took a boat trip down the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and spent quite a bit of time at New Orleans, La. (They were fortunate enough to be there for the Mardi Gras too!) A rather interesting and amusing incident happened to the Mahons on their way home—Mr. Mahon missed the boat at Madison, Ind., but he managed to get an automobile ride and beat the boat to the next port by five hours—it was an hour's drive and a six-hour boat trip—but then of course, you can ride in a car most any day!

Following was a program presented by Mrs. Howard Smith.

Mrs. Smith introduced Dr. H. S. Garnes, pastor of the church, who talked on the pre-Lenten season. Miss Katherine Ann Fensch then gave two piano numbers, and a routine business session preceded the supper which Mrs. A. D. Fonkalsrud had arranged.

The tables were decorated with fressia and pussy willows. The next regular meeting will be April 13 at the church.

Folk Song Program Given By Juniors

"American Folk Songs" was the title of the paper which Marjorie Wentz gave yesterday at the meeting of the Junior Music club at the home of Helen Hagelbarger, West Third street. She told of the music which grew out of Indian legends, the Stephen Foster contributions, and other types of folk music.

Illustrative piano music was given by Virginia Shambaugh and Marilyn Whitacre, and vocal selections were presented by Audrey Anglin. She was accompanied by Jean Kelly. The next meeting will be April 13 at the home of Marilee Sword.

Dessert Party At Mrs. Fox's Fetes Martha Fichter

Dessert-bridge was an event of yesterday evening when members of Beta chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority feted Miss Martha Fichter with a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Frank Fox on Hoffman avenue. Miss Fichter will become the bride of George H. Bender on March 18 in Lakewood.

The guests were seated at three small tables for the luncheon last evening, and the tables were decorated with pastel colored candles and favors. The group played bridge during the evening. Mrs. Robert Small and Mrs. Earl Herrick received the high score prizes, which they, in turn, presented to Miss Fichter.

The honoree was also the recipient of many gifts from the guests, and the members of Beta chapter gave her a pair of flower prints. Miss Fichter's mother, Mrs. C. R. Fichter, was a guest for the affair.

Refreshments were served at the close of the session by Mrs. Darl Stoffer, Mrs. C. H. Rupert, Mrs. D. E. Schooley, and Mrs. M. M. Karshner. The next regular meeting will be April 6 at the school.

Learn To Be More Hospitable

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There is a platitude or a copy-book maxim—I've forgotten the source—that says you can't get something for nothing.

Granted the truth of this, why do you expect the world—your own world of perhaps 25 people—to crowd to your door when you do nothing, absolutely nothing, to attract them?

No denying that the ability to make friends is a gift. But, fortunately, it's a gift that can be acquired. When you hear people, both young and old, wail that they're not popular, have no friends, that no one takes an interest in them or pays them any attention, it's pretty safe to assume such people have been the apple of their own eyes.

Do you know the type of person who accepts every invitation and never offers a cup of cold water in return? Men are the greatest offenders in this respect, to judge from the hundreds of complaining letters which come to this column. Their presence alone at any function seems ample return for social benefits received.

Not long ago, statistics in England showed there were seven women to one man. Since then, the ratio of women to men, all over Europe, has increased to striking proportions. And I, for one, do not blame the men for being picky about the invitations they accept, or which one of the contending girls they finally agree to marry. I blame all this disproportion of the sexes to the fighting and killing the men have to face at a nod of dictators.

So we'll confine our remarks to girls who escape being drafted into war to stop war, or for any other reason. The seven-to-one proportion of women to men should not insist on having everything their own way.

Why don't these surplus girls and women learn to be more hospitable?

If you want to be popular, it's well to remember that you're not invited out to make stump speeches or convert the entire company to your way of thinking. The "I-know-better" person is invariably left to himself.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, March 11.

ANOTHER extremely lively and eventful day, judging by an interesting chain of astral aspects, is forecast. There may be drastic and decisive action in business, as well as high pressure excitement and activity in the private relations. All pertaining to writings, publishing, promotional enterprises, selling and contracts are under high stimuli, and in the home there may be the excitement and stimulation of social or romantic festivities.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for an extremely happy, joyous and possibly hilarious year. Business should move at high pitch. The private life may be the scene of festive and exciting adventures, probably in connection with marriage, engagements or other romantic experience. It is a very auspicious time for literary or publishing endeavors.

A child born on this day may be splendidly gifted in the realm of art, music, literature and even business of a commercial nature where such talents are assets.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

I pretended to hesitate over PhilipVeritzen's query as to how soon I could arrange the interview for him with the exiled queen of Transvania, an interview in which he planned to reveal his identity as the young officer who had loved and lost her in their early youth.

In reality, I had my plan of campaign already mapped out, but there was no need to let him into the secret of my maneuvers.

"It will take some planning," I said at last. "I can promise you positively that I can arrange the interview. But—"

"But you'd like me to be absent while you are making the arrangements," he said. "My dear, I had no intention of hampering your movements by my presence. I will drop you at the farm, and proceed at once to my hotel. It takes less than a quarter of an hour to make the trip from the hotel to the farm. If you will telephone me 15 minutes before you wish my presence, I will be with you within a quarter hour. I shall hold myself in constant readiness for your summons."

"You will not have to wait long," I promised him, and for the rest of our journey to the farm we spoke no more of Olga.

The farmyard was guarded even as it had been when I left it.

Junior and Roderick squealed a vociferous surprised welcome, Katie flung herself upon me in joy at my unexpected return, and my mother-in-law, Katharine and the Underwoods gave me a hearty welcome Even Baby Faith stretched her arms to me in a greeting which made me exclaim delightedly, "Why! she knows me!"

"Of course she does," Katharine said. "She's a smart baby. And now will you tell us to what we owe this pleasure? We understood you weren't coming back for a fortnight or two."

"That's what I thought," I told her. "But I'm here because of Philip Veritzen. He wants me to arrange an interview with Olga for him. By the way, how is Olga?"

Lillian answered me as Katharine stooped to extricate a toy of Faith's from beneath a chair. We were by ourselves in the nursery, the small boys having gone back to an interrupted mid-forenoon snack, and my mother-in-law having rushed to the kitchen to "boss" Katie over what she considered a suitable luncheon for me.

"Neither she nor Olina could be better," Lillian said. "When do you want to see her?"

"Not for a little while," I said. "I have something more important on hand."

I went to the door and locked it.

"Sit down, please," I said. "I have something to tell you."

Counting on It.

"I'm sure he's counting on the absence of Mary and Miss Whitlock to put a dictograph or something similar into our rooms," I said. "And yet, if Mary and Miss Whitlock do not accept his invitation for a matinee and dinner today, he'll suspect that we suspect him."

"You've something worked out—I can see it," Lillian commented after a second. "Come! Out with it!"

"I was just wondering," I said slowly, "if you could be spared to run up to the city at once. With a good car and chauffeur you ought to get there before matinee time. Then you could go with Mary, and Miss Whitlock could remain guard at the rooms."

Egg Shampoo Removes Soap Film

By MME. QUI VIVE

There are thousands of women accustomed to shampooing their glorious locks whose hair is never free of soap scum. They are the loudest weepers at beauty's wailing wall. They have numerous complaints to register. Tresses are over-oily. Or they lack luster. Or the scalp is flaked with dandruff. The hair acts like sin, strings out a few days after it has been wound about metal curlers, is full of spite and meanness.

When soap has been left on the hair shafts for some time, due to a soap that won't lather or insufficient rinsing and friction, it cannot be removed by soap. Soap won't budge it. There have been cases that required the use of dry cleaning agents. The suds becomes gummy, clings persistently. The proper procedure then is an egg shampoo, which will clear away the grey substance, leave the hair light, alive and vigorous, each shaft apart from its neighbor.

For the ordinary bobbed head, six or seven eggs are required. Don't let anyone tell you that one or two eggs will do the work, they've never experimented. When women had yard-length Godiva locks as many as a dozen eggs were used for renovating.

Break six or seven eggs in a glass container that has a lip so the eggs can be poured out conveniently. Whip with a fork, just enough to break the wolks and to cause a slight foam. It is not advisable to use a beater. Add a tablespoonful of cold water.

Hold your head over a wash bowl, wet the hair well. Put the stopper in the bowl. Pour some of the eggs on the top of your honorable head, friction briskly. When you have rubbed in half the quantity of eggs, add a little hot water to those eggs that have flowed into the bowl and pour over the head with a cup, continuing to friction so as to distribute the froth evenly all over the head.

To the bathtub then and turn on the spray. Use the water hot as you can bear it. No interruptions, now. We know what you are asking: won't the hot water cook the eggs? What of it? Particles of the egg white will cling to the shafts anyway, but the brush will remove them.

Back to the wash bowl and repeat the first operation. This time the eggs should foam like soap suds. They will, if you rub hard enough. Keep the stopper in the bowl. Slosh the eggs and water over the head repeatedly. Back to the tub for a second and last rinsing.

Have a strong current of water, even if you half-drown yourself. Lift the hair, let the hot water pound upon the scalp.

Delicious Although Non-Fattening

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Even if curves are "in," most of us are still interested in foods that give nourishment without too many calories. The best place to pickup low-calorie recipes is at the beauty and milk farms.

There's a place in New York state by the side of the Hudson river that pioneers in such foods. Recently there was a dinner for past guests of the place who came to show that they had kept their vow to keep slim. The table was heaped with delicious food, but it was non-fattening food, scientifically planned to keep from adding weight to those who partook of the bounteous fare. We were so interested that we begged our hostess to give us some of the recipes for our readers.

The main dish consisted of lamb, mushrooms and tomatoes. Four pounds of lean lamb, three tomatoes, two pounds mushrooms, salt and pepper to taste were given as the amounts for 12 servings. Remove all fat from lamb, then place in cold water and bring to boil rapidly. Drain and wipe the lamb and cut in inch cubes. Clean and wash the mushrooms, removing caps, the only portion of mushroom used. Cut each tomato in eight slices, Alternate a cube of lamb, a mushroom cap and a slice of tomato twice around on a skewer. Place on a grill under a flame and broil for about eight minutes.

Tasty Salad.

Another tasty and appetizing but non-fattening dish was the salad, made of all vegetables in season. Rose-Dor Vegetable Salad for 12 requires one bunch carrots, one head fresh green cabbage, one pound string beans, four tomatoes, two onions, one bunch watercress, six twigs of mint, bunch celery, four green peppers, four stalks endive, four cucumbers, six tablespoons non-fattening mayonnaise and six hard-boiled eggs. Clean all vegetables and grate raw. Mix together with non-fattening mayonnaise. Roll in a loaf, putting the six hard-boiled eggs whole in the center. Wrap in wax-paper and put in ice box over night. This makes a beatiful dish in many colors, and is both nourishing, filling and tasty, without being high in colorific value.

The dessert was deceptive in appearance, leading one to believe that it contained all the forbidden ingredients. It satisfied the yearning for a sweet at the end of a meal, without adding poundage. It calls for six eggs, two cups white grape juice, juice of two oranges, two cups cold water and two tablespoons gelatin. Beat egg yolks until light and fluffy. Soak gelatin in cold water and melt over hot water. Add to egg yolks the white grape juice and orange juice. Add stiffly-beaten egg whites and beat well into mixture. Place in refrigerator and when partially jellied, remove and beat again. Pour into melon mold and chill until stiff. Garnish with a small cluster of seedless grapes, a sprig of mint and fresh strawberries. Serve this at your next bridge luncheon.

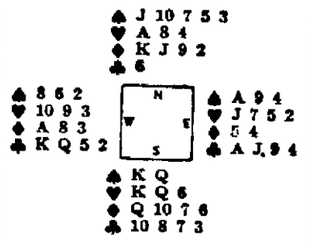
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THE BEST GET BLUFFED

CHUCKING A BLUFF seems to be just as effective today as when the game was young. We all know the old story of the badly outnumbered troops whose commander ordered them to advance. When the powerful enemy saw them coming, he retreated, thinking he was seeing the skirmish line of an immense force. The same gag works sometimes in bridge, when you lead the suit you dread most and thereby scare the defenders away from repeated leads of it, in the fear that it is your best suit.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

Fishing for his favorite No-trump contract, South opened here with 1-Club, North bid 1-Spade, South 1-No trump, North 2-No trump and South 3-No trump. West picked the unbid major as his best defense and led the heart 10.

South saw that the crisis was at hand. The opponents could run either four or five clubs against him, depending on how the suit was divided, and two aces. His only chance was to keep them away from clubs, which might be possible, if the honors were fairly well split. So he took the first heart trick in the North and led the club 6. East played low, South put on his 10 and West won with the Q.

Feeling sure that South had the ace-jack, West naturally did not return the suit, but repeated hearts, with his 9. The Q won and the spade Q was led, then the K, which East captured. He would not lead a club, being sure South had the K and would have to lead up to him at the end. So he played a third heart to the K. West won the lead of a small diamond and still refused to lead clubs. He returned a diamond, and South got the rest of the tricks, making an overtrick when he could have been set two.

Etiquette

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman.

How we admire the person who delightfully, automatically rises on the occasions when he or she should rise.

Let's consider some of the occasions when we should or should not rise:

We rise when the "Star-Spangled Banner" is played.

A hostess or a host shows courtesy by rising to welcome each guest, man or woman, and to say good-by to each guest.

A man rises when a woman enters the room.

A man rises when he is introduced to any one.

Both men and women should rise to greet their hostess.

Children should rise when a grown person enters the room, and should remain standing until the older person is seated. And naturally, too, children should rise for all introductions.

A young woman should rise when she is introduced to an older woman, or when she is introduced to a woman of her own age, by an older woman.

A woman does not, customarily, rise when a man is introduced to her, or when she is greeting a man.

In a restaurant a man rises when any one stops at his table, and he should remain standing, even if a woman, stopping at the table, suggests, "Please do not stand."

A woman does not rise, in a restaurant, to acknowledge an introduction, unless the woman is elderly.

In his office, a man rises to receive a woman visitor and remains standing until she is seated. When she rises to leave, he rises also and walks with her to the door.

In an office a man or a woman does not rise when an employer says a word or two in passing, but he or she should rise when the employer stops to speak for any length of time, for instance to give instructions.

Lawn seeding and feeding will be one of the earliest Spring tasks. Get your order in for seed and plant food and make arrangements to borrow a roller to smooth over the rough spots caused by winter heaving.

* * *

Horseradish sauce increases the tastiness of baked ham and cold cuts. It may be made by adding 2 tablespoons of grated horseradish (which comes in bottles) to ⅔ cup of whipped cream and then adding ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and 1 tablespoon of vinegar.

* * *

When cutting meat loaves, use a sharp knife that is frequently dipped in warm water to insure even-edged pieces.

Four Teams Claim Share of Friendly House Cage Title

Tygers Favored to Trim Willard In Semi-Finals

Mansfield Will Meet Winner of Bellevue-Fremont Game Saturday If Victorious Tonight.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

SHORTLY after 8:30 p. m. today, Mansfield followers of the Tygers will know definitely whether it will be necessary to return to Sandusky Saturday night.

The Mansfield high school cagers will meet Willard in a semi-final game in the district Class A tournament in Sandusky at 7:30 p. m. today, and return to the lake city Saturday if they win.

Mansfield is heavily favored over the Crimson Flashes, but Coach Russ Murphy and his charges are not under-estimating the Willard team, and expect to encounter what they term "trouble."

If the game runs true to form, Mansfield will be matched against either Bellevue or Fremont Ross in the finals billed Saturday night, and the winner of this tussle will represent the district in the state tournament in Columbus next week-end.

Bellevue Is Choice.

Fremont has been the "surprise" team in this year's elimination, but Bellevue is the choice.

And Bellevue will be the favorite in the finals Saturday eve if the Redmen topple the Little Giants tonight, regardless whether it is Mansfield or Willard it faces.

But Mansfield has been the standout team in the tournament to date, and the Tygers' followers will string along with them all the way, you can bet your hat on that.

Bellevue's build-up as the tournament favorite was the idea of newspapermen in the district. On season achievements, the Tygers don't have to take their hats off to any team in the district, despite the fact that the Redmen tripped the Men of Murphy several months ago.

It is suspected that if the Tygers reach the finals, Bellevue will be their preference as the opponent. Bellevue is the tougher team, the Tygers believe, but they would like another crack at the Redmen to square matters for the year.

However, the Tygers are not taking anything for granted. They realize that Willard is the present problem.

Ready for Tough Game.

The Tygers have encountered no opposition in the tournament to date, but they are prepared for a tough game tonight. Jake Lyons, who was taken ill earlier this week, will accompany the team tonight, Murphy said, and it is likely that he will return to his guard post.

Tommy Scott, Dave Shelley, Jack Dugger and Ike Smith will fill the other places in the starting lineup.

Major threats in the Willard lineup are George Sands, Vern Hurst and Richard Simon, who have been the Flashes' leading scorers this season.

The Bellevue-Fremont game is billed at 8:30 p. m.

Dodger Rookie

One of the youngsters upon whom the Brooklyn Dodgers are pinning some of their hopes for a better season this year is Pitcher John Wyatt, shown warming up in Clearwater, Fla., training camp.

Bowman Club Regains Lead In Grade Loop

The Bowman court cavorters regained a half game lead in the City Grade School league at the high school yesterday when they defeated Brinkerhoff, 26-15, with Diehl leading the way with 10 points.

The victory gave the Bowmanites the undisputed lead because of the postponement of the Bushnell-Hedges game because of the "flu" epidemic. Bushnell was tied with Bowman prior to yesterday's play.

In the other games, Prospect edged Newman, 11 to 10; Carpenter outpointed West Fifth, 15 to 12, and Western trimmed Woodland, 15 to 14.

New Philly Team Takes Early Lead With 2792.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The American Bowling Congress' 39th annual tenpin tournament opened on the up-beat.

A crowd of approximately 2,600 fans attended ceremonies inaugurating the keglers' marathon for prizes totaling $184,000. More than 23,000 bowlers will participate in the bombardment on 32 new alleys in Cleveland's Public auditorium.

Penn Batteries, from New Philadelphia, O., turned in a high count of 2,792 to lead the initial contingent of 64 five-man teams.

Action on the firing line will be resumed this afternoon. One entire shift tonight will be devoted to teams representing a single concern, General Motors Corporation, of Dayton, O. The leaders:

Jap Faces Wahlberg At Armory

Hart, Vangler Return to Mat Here in Semi-Final; Three Bouts on Card.

WITH both men striving for victory and further consideration as light-heavyweight title challengers, Kimon Kudo of Japan will meet blond Whitey Wahlberg of Duluth, Minn., in the top feature of tonight's wrestling card in the Armory. They will wrestle for two falls with a 90-minute time limit.

Victory will not improve Kudo's current rating, for he already is listed as the Great Mephisto's top contender. Wahlberg, however, is almost sure to climb from his No. 4 position if he manages to stop the sturdy little Jap.

Uses Jiu-Jitsu

The best wrestling science of the orient and occident will be displayed in the contest, Kudo relying on his native jiu-jitsu to a great degree and Wahlberg adhering to the American standards. There is a feeling that the Swede may win by virtue of his superior strength. He has also expressed confidence in his ability to halt the jiu-jitsu methods.

Frank Hart, Holland-born Canadian, collides with Sammy Vangler of Wheeling, W. Va. in the semi-final. They will wrestle for two falls with a 45-minute time limit. The opener pits Soldier Thomas against the Masked Marvel, the action being slated over the one fall, 30-minute time limit route.

Opens at 8:30 p.m.

Action will start at 8:30, with popular prices prevailing. Advance sale of tickets is being conducted at Hunt's News depot and Ringside cafe.

Budge, Perry Renew Rivalry

16,000 to See Pros Open Series in New York.

NEW YORK—(U.P.)—Donald Budge and Fred Perry face each other tonight for the first time as tennis professionals, and if the nasty words they have been pitching around come from the heart, don't be surprised if they whip out six-shooters instead of racquets when the umpire calls "play."

They'll do their battling in Madison Square Garden and a crowd of 16,000 is expected to turn out to see the boys renew—a rivalry that flared on the courts of two continents when they were amateurs interested only in winning cups and padding expense accounts.

Budge, the red-haired kid from Oakland, Cal., is the favorite to win the inaugural match of this 37-city transcontinental trek. On his recent tour with Ellsworth Vines he won 22 matches out of 39. Budge picked up a neat $50,000 on that trip, and figures to make almost as much against dark-haired Fred of England.

Fred has earned about $100,000 since he traded glory for gold back in 1936. It's hard to believe the boys are serious in their hate when their enterprise nets that kind of sugar.

The "hate" is supposed to go back to 1936 when Perry defeated Budge in the finals of the U. S. championships. Fred criticized Budge for a "stupid move" that he claimed lost Don the championship. Budge has been brooding over that ever since and all this week they've been chucking violent words at each other—through a press agent.

Lucas Expected to Reach Carey Cage Finals

CAREY was the destination of a host of Richland countians today. The purpose of the invasion is the district Class B basketball tournament, which reaches the semi-final stage in Carey tonight.

Of course, their chief interest is in Lucas, the county's only representative remaining in the elimination.

Coach Alfred Axe's Cubs are scheduled to lock horns with Arcadia of Hancock county in the first semi-final tilt billed at 8 p.m.

This game will be followed by a tussle between Carey and Harpster, recent victor over Thompson, pre-tournament favorite.

The winners of these two games will collide in the finals Saturday, and, according to the dope, Lucas and Carey will be the finalists.

The Lucas aggregation has performed admirably in play thus far, and if Tom Greulich and Bob Crawford continue to hit the bucket as effectively as they have in the early round games, the Cubs may advance as far as the state finals to be staged in Columbus next week.

Lucas is one of the high-powered teams in the elimination, but if it gets by tonight's game as expected, the Axemen are almost certain to have their hands full in the finals.

Playing on their own court, Carey players hold an important advantage over every team in the tournament, and it is for this reason why they are rated so highly.

Coach Axe reports his club in splendid shape for tonight's tiff with Arcadia, who advanced last week-end by trimming Ada. Lucas has beaten Bluffton and Fostoria St. Wendelin, taking the latter team into camp by a 55 to 25 count.

Tygers Paid a Lot for Him

Detroit's Tigers paid a lot of dough for the man at the left. He is Freddie Hutchinson, coast rookie pitcher, who drew $50,000 and four players for the Seattle club. Freddie is shown with Manager Del Baker at the Tigers' training camp at Lakeland, Fla.

Former Toledo Teammates Join Chuckovits' Quintet

Cupp, Crowe, Alvarez to Play Against Yuncker Sports at Mansfield High Wednesday.

CHUCK CHUCKOVITS will have a formidable supporting cast when he brings his Toledo University All-Stars to Mansfield high school Wednesday night to engage the Yuncker Sports, City league champions.

All of the outstanding Toledo players of the last three winters will appear with the sensational scorer against the Mansfield quintet.

Charles Cupp and Dale Crowe, who were co-captains of the 1936-37 Rocket team, will be teammates of Chuckovits. Bill Jones, probably the greatest colored cager in Toledo U. history, has also been signed for the team by Hank Rigney, Toledo sports promoter, who is handling the Chuckovits tour.

Spaniard With Chuck.

Armanda Alvarez, a Spaniard, who is a teammate of Chuckovits this season, will also appear here. There is also a possibility that Willard Swihart of this season's Toledo team, will join the squad, Vern Jones, president of the City league, sponsor of the game, has been informed.

The Yuncker team will throw a strong lineup against the Toledoans, but whether it will be able to extend the Chuckovits' all-stars remains to be seen.

Strengthened by the addition of Tom Farrell, Elks club center, the Sports will give the Toledoans a battle, their followers believe.

A preliminary game will open the program, Jones announced.

THREE BOXERS ADVANCE IN MARION TOURNAMENT

Mansfield will be well-represented when action is resumed in the annual Golden Gloves tournament at Marion Thursday night.

Beauford Glover, 135, Paul Carbetta, 112, and Jimmy Jones, 175, all of the Friendly House advanced to the quarter-finals. Carbetta, defending flyweight champion, was the only one to draw a second-round bye, last night.

Glover won on a default over Dan Matthews of Marion, while Jones decisioned Corbin of Crestline.

Carbetta will face his toughest test next week when he meets Eddie Tally of Crestline. Talley recently won a decision over Carbetta on the settlement annual indoor A. A. U. boxing show.

Mermen Carry Buckeye Hopes

Ohio No Major Threat in Big Ten Trackfest.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — Already basking in the reflection of the shiny conference basketball trophy, Ohio State athletes strive for more honors today and Saturday in annual winter conference meets in track, swimming, wrestling and fencing.

The swimmers stand the best chance of bringing back another cup from the tank championships at Purdue. Coach Mike Peppe has virtually the same crew which won Ohio State's first swimming title in 1938. Michigan again is the leading challenger.

Coach Larry Snyder will enter an even dozen athletes in the track meet at the University of Chicago field house but the Bucks don't figure to be in the team battle. Individually, Harley Howells, conference outdoor champion in the 440-yard dash, should make a strong bid for the indoor title now held by Carl Tuefel of Iowa.

The Ohio and Iowa mile relay teams will be favorites in that event. Ohio has a time of 3:18.2 and Iowa, a time of 3:17.8, for the event this winter.

Spike Mooney's wrestlers will grapple in the meet at Chicago while the fencers will duel with other conference swordsmen on the same campus.

GLENN TO ENTER TWO EVENTS IN K. OF C. MEET

NEW YORK—(INS)—Glenn Cunnigham of Peabody, Kas., called by many experts the greatest runner of all-time, tomorrow night will attempt to add further to his mastery of the various distances in the 20th annual New York Chapter Knights of Columbus meet.

Cunningham will engage first in the 1,000-yard run, having as one of his opponents, John Borican of the Shore A. C. of New Jersey, undefeated at this distance during the indoor season. Then Glenn will take the floor in the Columbian mile to try for his seventh straight in this event.

Farms Bow to Dairys

Musille, Rex, Miller Teams Win to Figure in Senior League Deadlock.

SENIOR LEAGUE (Final)

Musille Cigars	3	2	.600
Miller Dairys	3	2	.600
Blue Goose Sohioans	2	3	.400
Augustine Canfields	1	4	.200

FOUR of the six teams in the Senior league held a share of first place in the circuit today.

The four-way deadlock for the van position came about when the Raemelton club bowed to the Miller Dairys, 32 to 26. In addition to the Raemelton club, the teams involved in the deadlock are the Red Billiards, Musille Cigars and Miller Dairys.

Play-off Planned.

A play-off will be staged next week to untie the deadlock and determine an opponent for the Rex Billiards, first half champions, in the titular play-off.

The Farms, who had set the pace during the greater part of the second round, was no match for the Miller team at the Friendly House last night.

The Dairys jumped into a 5 to 4 lead in the first period, and extended their advantage to 20 to 7 at the intermission. Led by Jim Heiser's 13 points, the Dairys coasted in the second half. Ken Hardin tallied 11 points for the Raemelton team.

Augustine's Canfields made it tough for the Rex Billiards for two periods, but the Cuemen rallied in the second half to win, 39 to 36. The Billiards trailed 11 to 9 at the end of the first period, but the count was 16-all at the half. In the third frame, the Billiards forged into the front by a 28 to 24 margin. Joe Wentz tallied 10 points for the winners, while George Berry collected the same number for the losers.

Tigers Loom as Major Threats to Yankee Reign

By GAYLE TALBOT

LAKELAND Fla.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers, hottest club in baseball for the last several weeks of the 1938 race, hope to go right on from there in the coming campaign and give the Yankees a real argument all the way.

Manager Del Baker almost certainly has the most improved team in either league, at least on paper, and with a fair share of the breaks his club might finish a strong second to the Yanks. That is about as high praise as it's safe to give an American league entry these days.

Except for the batting weakness of their outfield, which is compensated for by the slugging of Hank Greenberg, Rudy York and Charlie Gehringer of the inner works, the Tigers are a powerful outfit in every respect. Their glaring weakness at third base last season was corrected by the deal that brought them Frank Higgins from the Boston Red Sox.

"It's a good club," admitted Baker. "It might even be a great club if Schoolboy Rowe comes back to pitch like he used to, and Fred Hutchison lives up to his promise. A team can go a long way with a pair of really good pitchers."

Hutchison, of course, is the prize exhibit of the spring camps. He is a husky kid pitcher who won 25 and lost seven for Seattle last year and cost the Tigers $50,000 cash and several players. Scouts of rival clubs have been running the youngster down, saying he wouldn't be able to cope with big league batters without a fast ball, but he's made a great impression on Baker.

"I've already seen enough of him to know he's a real ball player," he said. "He's about the coolest one I ever saw break in. It's remarkable that a boy of 19 could be so far developed. Maybe his fast one isn't quite like Walter Johnson's, but don't ever let him hit you with it."

Rowe, who came back to win 12 and lose only two for Beaumont after being shipped out of Detroit with a sore arm last season, believes his wing is as good as ever. I saw him cut loose with a dozen pitches that looked like they might dent armor. He firmly believes he will prove himself one of the games greatest pitchers again.

With him from Beaumont Rowe brought another righthander, Paul Trout, who looks like he might give the Tigers a terrific mound staff. He won 22 and lost 6 and in Texas they declare he's better than Rowe. He had an earned run average of 2.16 per game against Rowe's 2.25 and Hutchison's 2.40.

Cleveland Rookies Get Only Six Hits In 4 to 3 Defeat

Tribe Beaten By Pels

Vitt Injured When Hit by Drive From Sodd's Bat; Drake Effective.

NEW ORLEANS—(INS)—A red-faced gang of Cleveland Indian rookies resolved today to improve their batting eyes after absorbing a 4 to 3 beating at the hands of the New Orleans Pelicans in their first exhibition game of the season. The Tribesmen made but six hits

The only Indian to get more than one hit was Jeff Heath. One of his hits would have been a triple, but Jeff stopped on the first base line long enough to find the drive was not foul, and as a result got only a single

Heath and Bruce Campbell were the only regulars to play, the rest of the team being made up of rookies and second-stringers Jimmy Webb, Oscar Grimes, Henry Helf and Jim Schilling made the other Cleveland hits.

Of three Tribe rookie pitchers, only one, Tom Drake, was particularly effective Clay Smith and Charley Suche were the other two hurlers

Manager Oscar Vitt directed the game, but only after he retired to the clubhouse for treatment when a drive from Bill Sodd's bat in practice hit him on the head and knocked him to the ground Vitt sprained his wrist in falling

The visitors obtained their winning margin in the first game when they marked up a 1058 total. The Meder team finished strong with scores of 1032 and 1004, but were unable to close the margin

Hamilton Loses To Dayton Club

Akron Hower and Piqua Also Removed From District High School Tournament Play.

By JIM EMERSON

COLUMBUS—(U P)—A tidal wave of one and two-point margins and overtime periods swept three favorites from further state high school basketball tourney competition today and threw scares into three other top-ranking quints

Hamilton, a state meet entry in Class A for the past two years, was the most startling upset victim A fighting Dayton Steele club eliminated the southwestern favorites by a score of 21 to 20 in an overtime period

Piqua, another Class A favorite at Dayton, was removed from the field, 23 to 22 by a plucky Dayton Fairview team

The third major upset occurred at Akron where Hubbard put Akron Hower on the sidelines, 21 to 20

Bryan Has Close Call.

Three other favored aggregations squeaked through by margins too close for comfort Bryan barely beat Napoleon, 25 to 24, in a thrill-packed Class A contest in the northwestern district Strasburg, seeking a return trip to the state meet after a 1938 entry, nosed out Philo, 44 to 43, in a Class B classic at Denison. Spring Valley continued as a favorite in the Class B meet as Springfield after edging North Lewisburg, 24 to 23

Hamilton's elimination left only eight of last year's 16 Class A district champions still in the fight for another crack at the state title in Columbus next week. Three Class A state meet entries for 1939 will be chosen tonight at Akron and Napoleon

Bryan will battle Defiance for the district title at Napoleon Defiance bowled over Montpelier, 51 to 30, last night but has lost twice to Bryan during the regular season.

Akron Garfield and Garfield Heights meet for one position and Massillon and Canton township for another of the five Class A state berths on the block at Akron

Hubbard and Cleveland Shaw took care of two Akron fives last night and removed any threat of the Rubber City sending four teams to Columbus.

Hubbard downed Hower and Shaw tipped over Akron South 27 to 24 The two winners will meet tomorrow night for a state tourney trip Akron Buchtel and Canton McKinley, both 1938 state entrants, will clash for another state position this year Buchtel trimmed Struthers, 29 to 23, and Canton McKinley edged Youngstown South, 17 to 13, last night

New Philadelphia, runner-up for the 1938 state title, advanced into the district finals at Dennison by whipping Cambridge, 42 to 28, and will meet the victor of the Dover-Barnesville title tonight for the district title.

Toledo Devilbiss and Toledo Central clash for the Class A tourney seat at stake in the Toledo sector Devilbiss turned back Toledo Scott, 34 to 22, and Central knocked over Toledo Libbey, 38 to 28, last night

The strong Sandusky St Mary's five romped along in Class B competition at Fremont and bounced into the finals with a 29 to 24 victory over Castalia-Margaretta. St. Mary's will meet Elmore tomorrow night for the title

Advance In 'B'

Upper Arlington and Lancaster St Mary's advanced into the semi-finals of the central district Class B meet and will battle Saturday for a state tourney entry.

North Canton moved into the final round in the northeastern district Class B play-offs by defeating Poland, 41 to 36.
